SPEAKER BIO

JOCELYN MANGAN

CEO and Founder Him for Her and illumyn Board Member Papa Johns International, ChowNow and Wag!

Jocelyn Mangan is a visionary leader with a mission to solve board diversity in the next ten years. Her work is at the forefront of building better companies - and therefore a better future - impacting the most influential lever for change: the boardroom. Jocelyn is the CEO and Founder of two social impact ventures: Him For Her, which is accelerating diversity on corporate boards, and illumyn, which is bridging the gap between boardroom opportunities and historically underrepresented executive talent ready for board service.

Jocelyn currently serves on the boards of Papa John's International, Inc. (NASDAQ: PZZA), ChowNow, and Wag! (NASDAQ: PET) and is an advisor to Homebase. She is a part-time moderator for the Netflix Leadership Program. She has over two decades of technology experience building iconic global mobile apps and market-leading software products at some of the world's best local, consumer, and marketplace companies, including CitySearch, Ticketmaster, OpenTable and Snagajob.

Jocelyn is a Clinton Global Initiative Commitment Maker, a TEDx speaker, a member of the 2016 class of Henry Crown Fellows at the Aspen Institute and was a global ambassador for the Vital Voices Global Partnership. She was named one of the San Francisco Business Times "Most Influential Women in Bay Area Business" in 2023, and was one of Fast Company's "100 Most Creative People in Business" in 2015.
