EMPLOYMENT TRIBUNAL: COSTS INFORMATION

Pricing

Our pricing for defending claims for unfair dismissal is:

Simple case (assuming a two day hearing):	£40,000 to £60,000 (excluding VAT and disbursements)
Medium complexity case (assuming a one week hearing):	£75,000 to £100,000 (excluding VAT and disbursements)
High complexity case (assuming a two week hearing):	£125,000 to £175,000 (excluding VAT and disbursements)

Factors that could make a case more complex and/or increase costs above the price ranges set out above:

- if it is necessary to make or defend applications to amend claims or to provide further information about an existing claim;
- defending claims that are brought by litigants in person and/or against multiple respondents;
- making or defending a costs application;
- a need for additional hearings to deal with preliminary issues ;
- the number of witnesses and documents;
- if the Tribunal timetable becomes protracted (for example, if a Tribunal hearing is adjourned); and
- time spent on settlement discussions (this may have a material effect on costs).

If it is a dismissal connected to whistleblowing or discrimination, it is likely to be more complex and the above pricing range would need to be reviewed. A claim for wrongful dismissal in the employment tribunal is likely to be priced in the same way as a simple case of unfair dismissal.

The fees above do not include disbursements (see below).

Disbursements

Disbursements are costs related to your matter, such as photocopying, travel and accommodation costs, or the costs of a barrister (counsel) to conduct the advocacy at any hearings. We handle the payment of the disbursements on your behalf to ensure a smoother process.

Counsel's fees are estimated to be between £1,500 to £7,500 per day (depending on experience of the advocate and the complexity/length of the case) for attending a Tribunal Hearing (including preparation).

Key stages

The fees set out above cover all of the work in relation to the following key stages of a claim:

- taking your initial instructions, reviewing the papers and advising you on merits and likely compensation (this is likely to be revisited throughout the matter and subject to change);
- entering into pre-claim conciliation where this is mandatory to explore whether a settlement can be reached;
- preparing claim or response;
- reviewing and advising on claim or response from other party;
- exploring settlement and negotiating settlement throughout the process;
- preparing or considering a schedule of loss;
- preparing for (and attending) a Preliminary Hearing;
- exchanging documents with the other party and agreeing a bundle of documents;
- taking witness statements, drafting statements and agreeing their content with witnesses ;
- preparing bundle of documents;
- reviewing and advising on the other party's witness statements;
- agreeing a list of issues, a chronology and/or cast list; and
- preparation and attendance at Final Hearing, including instructions to Counsel.

The stages set out above are an indication and if some of the stages above are not required, the fee will be reduced.

How long will my matter take?

The time that it takes from taking your initial instructions to the final resolution of your matter depends largely on the stage at which your case is resolved. If a settlement is reached during pre-claim conciliation, the case is likely to take 4-6 weeks. If your claim proceeds to the issue of proceedings and a final hearing, your case is likely to take 6 to 12 months, depending on the nature of the case and Tribunal availability. This is just an estimate and we would of course be able to give you a more accurate timescale once we have more information and as the matter progresses.

- the urgency of the matter;
- the amount and quality of supporting documentation;
- failing to provide the information or documents requested in a timely manner;
- the fact that we have to request that the Home Office exercise its discretion as the application does not satisfy the requirements of the relevant category;

- adverse immigration history; and
- any convictions.

If the application you wish to submit is not set out above, please contact us and we will be pleased to provide a fee estimate and scope of work for the relevant application.

The fees above do not include disbursements (see below).

Multiple applications

The fees above are for assisting with single applications by the principal applicant. They do not include the costs of assisting with applications for dependant family members, even if submitted simultaneously.

If you would like assistance with submitting a number of applications, for example an application for indefinite leave to remain followed by an application to naturalise as a British citizen, or applications involving dependant family members, please contact us and we will be pleased to provide a fee estimate and scope of work for the relevant applications.

Disbursements

Disbursements are costs related to your matter, such as translation costs, fees for overseas lawyers, or the costs of a barrister (counsel) to conduct the advocacy at any hearings. Other key disbursements may include Home Office application fees; Immigration Health Surcharge, Immigration Skills Charge and priority processing fees.

Key stages

The fees set out above cover all of the work in relation to the following key stages of a case:

- taking your initial instructions and advising on your immigration options;
- advising on the documents and information required to prepare your application;
- preparing suggested drafts of supporting documents if necessary;
- reviewing the documents and information provided by you and advising if anything further is required;
- preparing your immigration application form and sending this to you for review prior to submission;
- uploading your supporting documents;
- booking a biometric appointment for you if required;
- providing a covering letter in support of the application;
- preparing the bundle of documents which need to be submitted in support of the application;
- booking an appointment for submission of the application and/or submitting the application directly to the Home Office;
- answering any routine queries that the Home Office may have in relation to the application;
- once the application has been approved, reviewing the approval documentation, which may include a passport endorsement and/or a Biometric Residence Permit (BRP) to ensure that it has been validly issued; and
- providing advice on the next steps.

The stages set out above are an indication of the process followed in most immigration applications and if some of the stages above are not required, the fees will be reduced. The above does not include assisting with challenging a refusal decision if the application is not approved. If you wish to challenge a decision to refuse your application, we would provide a separate fee estimate for this work.

Outbound advisory

We are able to provide advice and assistance with outbound immigration applications for other countries, working on a case by case basis either with an overseas office of Mayer Brown or third party advisers who specialise in the relevant jurisdiction. We will provide a proposed scope of service and a fixed fee on instruction.

How long will my matter take?

The time that it takes from taking your initial instructions to the grant of a decision by the Home Office will depend on where you are applying from and on what supporting documents you need to obtain. Whilst the Home Office does provide an indicated processing time for different countries, this is not something within our control and may vary depending on office closures and how busy caseworkers are at the time of application. We will also need to factor in how long it may take you to obtain the required documents. We will advise on timings for your particular circumstances.
