In her new role as consultant, Ping will bolster the firm's energy and M&A operations in China. She has considerable knowledge on climate change and has advised on around 300 clean development mechanism (CDM) projects in China to purchase certified emission reductions (CERs) and has acted on two of the largest CDM transactions in China to date.

"Ping is a significant addition to our Beijing office and energy team," said Elaine Lo, senior partner and Asia Chair at Mayer Brown JSM. "We are delighted to have her on board as she brings considerable experience and knowledge to our firm. I have no doubt that she will play a key role in the development and growth of our China practice."

Ping received her Bachelor of Engineering and Master of Law degrees from Tsinghua University as well as her Master of Laws from Harvard Law School. She is admitted in New York.
