

Law360 Government Contracts Editorial Advisory Board

Law360, New York (February 24, 2016, 5:20 PM ET) -- Law360 is pleased to announce the formation of its 2016 Government Contracts editorial advisory board.

The purpose of the editorial advisory board is to get feedback on Law360's coverage and to gain insight from experts in the field on how best to shape future coverage.

The members of the 2016 Government Contracts Law360 editorial advisory board are:

Jeff Chiow, Rogers Joseph O'Donnell

In 2011, Jeff Chiow helped launch RJO's Washington, D.C., office. He is attentive to evolving client challenges, especially those of information technology service and supply contractors. He performs a mix of investigations and litigation work and has litigated precedent-setting cases before the U.S. Government Accountability Office, the U.S. Court of Federal Claims and the Federal Circuit.

Jonathan DeMella, Davis Wright Tremaine LLP

Jonathan DeMella is a partner at Davis Wright who focuses his practice on government contracts counseling and litigation, including performance disputes, federal construction, bid protests before the GAO and Court of Federal Claims, size and status protests before the U.S. Small Business Administration, internal investigations and civil fraud under the False Claims Act, procurement ethics, intellectual property rights, and federal and state grants.

Randall M. Fox, Kirby McInerney LLP

Randall Fox is a Kirby McInerney partner representing whistleblowers who claim that the federal, state and local governments were defrauded or harmed in tax, health care, procurement and investment matters. Prior to joining Kirby, he was the first bureau chief of the New York attorney general's Taxpayer Protection Bureau, which was created in 2011 to crack down on frauds committed against New York.

Jerry Howe, Fried Frank Harris Shriver & Jacobson LLP

Jerry Howe is a partner resident in Fried Frank's Washington, D.C., office. He is a member of the firm's government contracts practice and advises clients on government contracts litigation, investigations and bid protests, as well as M&As and private equity transactions in the aerospace and defense industry.

Marcia G. Madsen, Mayer Brown LLP

Marcia Madsen is a partner in Mayer Brown's Washington, D.C., office and the leader of the firm's government contracts practice. Her practice encompasses regulatory matters and litigation in federal forums. She is a past chair of the American Bar Association's Public Contract Law Section and currently serves as co-chair of the ABA's Procurement Fraud Committee. She chaired the presidentially appointed 1423 Panel and currently is co-editor of Mayer Brown's blog "Meaningful Discussions."

Scott McCaleb, Wiley Rein LLP

Scott M. McCaleb is a partner in Wiley Rein's government contracts practice and serves on the firm's executive committee. He represents clients on federal, state and local procurement matters, including bid protests, contract disputes and termination litigation, appellate litigation, audits and cost allowability issues, government investigations, suspension and debarment matters, and FCA actions. His experience extends across virtually all government contracting industries. He has twice been named a Law360 MVP.

Dave Nadler, Blank Rome LLP

Dave Nadler is a partner and government contracts group leader at Blank Rome. His practice focuses on government audits and investigations, the FCA, bid protests, claims and disputes, and compliance matters. He is co-chairman of the ABA's Procurement Fraud Committee, and a vice-chair of the ABA's Accounting, Cost and Pricing Committee.

Stu Nibley, K&L Gates LLP

Stu Nibley is a partner in the government contracts group of international firm K&L Gates. He serves as chair of the ABA's Public Contract Law Section and is also a member of the Court of Federal Claims Advisory Council.

Jeniffer Malin De Jesus Roberts, Dentons

Jeniffer M. De Jesus Roberts is a partner in Dentons' government contracts practice in D.C. She advises companies on ethics, compliance, litigation, investigations, mergers and acquisitions, and other transactions. Her multidisciplinary practice includes extensive experience assessing compliance risk, drafting and implementing government contracts policies and procedures, and developing related training for new and established government contractors.

Jonathan Shaffer, Smith Pachter McWhorter PLC

Jonathan Shaffer has practiced at Smith Pachter McWhorter for over 25 years. The firm member has represented government contractors in hundreds of bid protests before the GAO, the Court of Federal Claims and other tribunals. He also represents contractors in disputes at the federal, state and local levels.

Hartmann Young, Perkins Coie LLP

Hartmann Young is a government contracts partner in Perkins Coie's Washington, D.C., office. His practice spans dispute resolution, bid protests, litigation, investigations, and counseling and training on a broad array of commercial and government contracts issues, including fraud and corruption matters. He is a member of the ABA's Public Contract Law Section's governing council and serves as co-chair of the ABA's Acquisition Reform and Emerging Issues Committee.
