

Law360 Project Finance Editorial Advisory Board

Law360, New York (February 24, 2016, 10:20 PM ET) -- Law360 is pleased to announce the formation of its 2016 Project Finance editorial advisory board.

The purpose of the editorial advisory board is to get feedback on Law360's coverage and to gain insight from experts in the field on how best to shape future coverage.

The members of the 2016 Project Finance Law360 editorial advisory board are:

Mitchell Carroll, Morgan Lewis & Bockius LLP

A Morgan Lewis partner, Mitchell Carroll's practice involves a broad array of project finance transactions with a particular focus on large energy infrastructure assets, including conventional and renewable power generation projects. Carroll has significant experience in mergers and acquisitions involving power generation facilities and portfolios of power generation assets.

Giji John, Orrick Herrington & Sutcliffe LLP

Giji John, a partner in Orrick's Houston office, focuses on the development and finance of energy projects globally. He has experience representing project sponsors through development, acquisitions and dispositions, joint ventures and financings. His representation has included transactions involving liquefied natural gas, methanol, carbon capture, petrochemical, natural gas and wind and solar.

John Leonti, Troutman Sanders LLP

John Leonti helps clients structure, negotiate, document and execute complex financial transactions in the energy sector, including tax equity transactions utilizing partnership and lease structures, debt transactions and hedge transactions using over-the-counter derivatives such as physical and financial renewable energy hedges. He has acted as counsel to major utilities, tax equity investors, independent power producers, banks, funds and power marketers.

John Marciano, Chadbourne & Parke LLP

John Marciano is a transactional lawyer focusing on tax, legal and commercial advice in relation to developing, financing, buying and selling energy and infrastructure projects and aviation equipment. He is a frequent speaker on debt and equity structuring issues and edits a comprehensive tax credit guide.

George Miller, Mayer Brown LLP

George Miller is a partner in Mayer Brown's infrastructure group. His current work includes representing the underwriters in the financing of the Brightline passenger rail project in Florida, a consortium bidding for the I-70 East concession in Colorado and lenders in a bid for the UC Merced concession in California.
