Dear Clients and Friends,

Virtually all major law firms provide legal advice in an array of matters ranging from the adversarial to the transactional and lots of disciplines in between. Mayer Brown, of course, is no exception; however, among other areas, we have a unique ability to provide integrated legal services to the regulated industry of consumer financial services. Providing effective legal services to a regulated industry requires an in-depth knowledge of the underlying business—how it makes money and how it can lose money—and the overlay of law and regulations that inform how that business must operate. In the area of consumer financial services, Mayer Brown brings an unparalleled understanding of how the pieces fit together—how our clients extend, administer, enforce, buy, sell and securitize consumer credit; how they finance their operations; how they protect and defend their assets and business; how they use, provide and receive third-party services; how they maneuver within and around the labyrinth of federal and state laws and regulations and the specter of government enforcement; and how they position themselves within the industry, with their customers and in matters of public policy that drive their very existence and their future. This knowledge of both law and business enables Mayer Brown to serve as a trusted advisor to our clients in the consumer financial services industry, a role that we cherish and constantly strive to improve.

In the pages that follow, we are pleased to offer a snapshot of our consumer financial services work in 2018. Hopefully, these representative engagements will help demonstrate how Mayer Brown can assist clients with navigating the complex world of consumer financial services. We look forward to continuing to work, or working for the first time, with you this year and in the years to come. Thank you for this privilege.

Sincerely,
Mayer Brown

Consumer Credit Compliance

In 2018, compliance with state and federal regulatory requirements was a fundamental component of the work of Mayer Brown's Financial Services Regulatory & Enforcement practice.

Our lawyers leveraged their extensive knowledge of the federal and state laws and programs that impacted consumer finance activities and a wide range of consumer finance products. The firm also counseled clients on government-insured or guaranteed mortgage loan programs and on the requirements of Fannie Mae, Freddie Mac and Ginnie Mae. The firm regularly analyzed policies and procedures for compliance with applicable federal and state laws; designed and evaluated enterprise risk, due diligence and quality control systems; assisted companies in obtaining necessary state licenses and approvals; and provided regular compliance counseling across a variety of federal and state laws. We also helped clients implement the latest federal and state laws and regulations.

2018 REPRESENTATIVE MATTERS

Consumer Credit Diligence

Mayer Brown's Financial Services Regulatory & Enforcement lawyers provided regulatory compliance transactional diligence services to consumer finance companies and their investors across a wide range of asset classes and business structures.

The firm leveraged its deep understanding of consumer financial and consumer protection laws to provide guidance on licensing, transaction structures and the risks of funding or acquiring the assets of a diverse set of investment targets. In 2018, the firm's consumer financial diligence practice involved confident navigation of an uncertain regulatory environment. Federal regulatory changes—generally expected to provide opportunities for growth and innovation, subject to procedural ambiguity—were tempered by potentially industry-altering cases working their way through the judiciary and by aggressive stances from state regulators. Our representative engagements have covered several major classes of financial assets.

Cybersecurity and Data Privacy: Navigating a Constantly Changing Landscape

The cybersecurity and data privacy landscape continues to change, creating significant new risks for businesses across economic sectors. New types of litigation are emerging, new regulatory regimes are entering into force, and new laws promise yet further compliance challenges in the future. At the same time, a wide range of threat actors are launching more complex and more consequential attacks against multinational businesses, further raising the stakes.

Government Regulatory & Enforcement

Our Financial Services Regulatory & Enforcement practice regularly represents banks, independent mortgage companies and non-bank financial services companies in a wide variety of government supervisory and enforcement matters.

In 2018, we represented clients in numerous enforcement investigations conducted by the CFPB, Department of Justice (DOJ), Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and state attorneys general, among others. Before these agencies, we represented clients in investigations involving mortgage origination, co-marketing agreements, mortgage servicing, bank deposit activities, debt collection and other activities regulated under federal and state consumer protection laws. We also represented numerous clients in connection with supervisory activities conducted by federal and state banking regulators. Our deep substantive experience in consumer finance law, coupled with our regular appearance before these agencies, allows us to provide our clients thoughtful advice that accounts for the regulator's expectations and the evolving state of the law. We work with our clients to help communicate with regulators and law enforcement, narrow the scope of investigations, develop the facts, defend depositions and craft legal arguments that lead to positive results. When necessary, we draw on the knowledge of colleagues in our litigation department to ensure that we are prepared for litigation in the event that we cannot achieve a satisfactory resolution directly with the agency. Our extensive knowledge of the regulations and regulator expectations uniquely qualifies us to work with clients to implement corrective actions that remedy issues identified in the course of examinations and investigations.

Financial Institutions M&A

Lawyers in our Financial Institutions M&A practice handled consumer finance transactions involving the world's largest banks, mortgage companies, lending institutions, investment firms, hedge funds and insurance companies.

In 2018, we handled matters ranging in size and complexity from small and mid-sized transactions within a single national or regional market to multibillion-dollar transactions. Our team members have a thorough understanding of the underlying financial products and services of financial institutions, including asset structures, business and legal risks, and regulatory issues and how such matters impact deal terms and transaction risk. We note that 2018 was a banner year for M&A activity in the financial services industry, which is driven by economic pressure on sellers, consolidation in the mortgage space and new strategic investors. We expect to see similar trends and deal volume in 2019.

Securitization and Structured Finance

Mayer Brown's Financial Services Regulatory & Enforcement practice worked closely with our market-leading Structured Finance group to close more securitizations in 2018 than any other law firm.

In addition, we helped our clients develop and implement a variety of credit facilities, repurchase facilities, derivatives, participations and other structured finance arrangements. Our 2018 securitization and other structured finance transactions included virtually every consumer-related asset class, including forward and reverse residential mortgages, servicing advances, student loans, credit card receivables, auto loans and leases, marketplace consumer loans, single-family rental properties, unsecured personal loans, retail installment contracts and other consumer receivables. Whether we represent issuers, underwriters, servicers, investors or other counterparties, we emphasize close cooperation with our securitization lawyers to ensure compatibility between our client's compliance and financing strategies and to help identify and solve potential issues as early as possible in the transaction process. Together we helped our clients adapt to and implement a wide variety of new and existing laws and regulations that impact the financing of consumer financial assets and navigate, interact with and even challenge a multitude of applicable government agencies and bodies, including the US Securities and Exchange Commission, Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, CFPB, HUD, government-sponsored enterprises (GSEs), US Internal Revenue Service and various other federal, state and local government agencies and regulators. We also represented our clients in connection with myriad non-financing transactions related to the origination, investment in or the management of consumer financial assets. In helping our clients negotiate asset purchase and sale agreements, servicing agreements, subservicing agreements, joint-marketing agreements, management agreements, custodial agreements and other agreements that facilitate the financing and ultimate realization of consumer financial assets, we apply the same integrated and team-oriented approach across all of our applicable practice areas to deliver consistent high-quality service through all phases of their business plans, from origination to securitization.

- Advised Shopify, a leading provider of e-commerce solutions to businesses, on a variety of issues in connection with its inventory financing and payment processing services.
- Advised multiple companies, ranging from startups to several of the largest money service businesses in the world, on MSB regulatory requirements related to licensing, prudential rules, anti-money laundering, consumer protection and other matters.

- Advised several major payment companies on the integration of their services into social media platforms and other “contextual commerce” situations.
- Advised numerous companies on the development of online point-of-sale consumer financing solutions that rely on innovative underwriting models and provide consumers with greater flexibility to finance purchases.
- Counseled several of the largest payment processing companies in the United States on the legal risks associated with providing payment processing services for cannabis transactions in the United States and also on the risks under US law from providing payment processing services for cannabis transactions in Canada.
- Defended multiple banks in litigation involving allegations that the banks failed properly to obtain consumer consent for their overdraft practices in accordance with Regulation E; reviewed the overdraft practices of institutions not involved in this litigation to evaluate their risk from similar claims; and advised institutions on modifications to their overdraft policies and forms to manage the risk going forward.

- Advised several major prepaid account issuers and program managers on compliance with the CFPB’s prepaid account rule scheduled to take effect on April 1, 2019.
- Advised several major online retailers on the development of legally compliant practices to manage the risk of consumer fraud in connection with electronic payment transactions.

Consumer Class Actions

Mayer Brown's Consumer Class Actions group has extensive experience representing consumer credit and financial service providers in high-stakes consumer class-action lawsuits that span the country.

We routinely defend against consumer credit-related class actions arising under the TILA, FCRA, ECOA, Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, Telephone Consumer Protection Act (TCPA) and various state and federal unfair and deceptive trade practices statutes. We continue to pioneer ways to attack proposed class claims at the pleading stage in an attempt to obtain dismissals and lower fees and costs and to reduce overall litigation time. Moreover, we work closely with Mayer Brown's Financial Services Regulatory & Enforcement practice to prevent and/or limit litigation resulting from regulatory scrutiny. We have defended against hundreds of class and mass actions in the past decade and have a strong record of victories.

2018 REPRESENTATIVE MATTERS

- Defeated a putative class action in the Ninth Circuit on behalf of a mortgage servicer related to default-related services and expenses.

- Represented a mortgage servicer in a putative class action related to inspection fees for FHA loans.
- Defeated a putative nationwide class action against a global financial institution under the TCPA.
- Defeated a purported class action under the TCPA related to junk faxes and defended a judgment in the Sixth Circuit.
- Obtained dismissals of FCRA and TCPA lawsuits for lack of standing under Spokeo.
- Represented a mortgage servicer in a putative class action alleging violation of Homeowner's Bill of Rights.
- Representing a financial institution in a class action challenging overdraft fees.
- Represented mortgage servicers in FCRA litigation throughout the country.

Commercial and RMBS Litigation

Mayer Brown continued to be the leading firm for securitization trustees in 2018, winning far-reaching victories in trial and appellate courts.

The firm's representation of trustees related to Residential Mortgage Backed Securities (RMBS) ranged from multibillion-dollar investor litigation to advice on the distribution of settlement proceeds to the payment of property taxes on foreclosed property. The firm's prior appellate victories in Commerce Bank v. BNY Mellon and Retirement Board v. BNY Mellon continue to be the linchpins for trustees seeking to limit their duties to those set out in bond indentures, and the firm built on those wins with trial and appellate decisions this year. Mayer Brown also added to its roster of victories in litigation brought by mortgage borrowers and investors.

2018 REPRESENTATIVE MATTERS

- Represented an RMBS trustee in winning complete summary judgment on federal claims alleging that the trustee had failed to prosecute loan-level breaches relating to loan underwriting and servicing.
- Represented an RMBS trustee in winning dismissal on the pleadings of a suit brought by collateralized debt obligation (CDO) collateral managers on the ground that the managers lacked standing to sue on RMBS held by the CDOs.
- Represented a national mortgage servicer and MERS, Inc. in winning a motion to dismiss challenging the RMBS process under Minnesota law.
- Won appeal for an RMBS trustee, with finding that the trustee had no implied duty to declare default on securities.
- Won summary judgment for an RMBS trustee, defeating claim that it had a duty to pursue litigation against a bankrupt counterparty.
- At pleadings stage in a putative class action alleging violations of state and federal law related to mortgage servicing, convinced Court to strike class allegations from complaint and won dismissal with prejudice of all claims against two RMBS trustees and their respective trusts and nearly all claims against mortgage servicer.

Supreme Court & Appellate

Mayer Brown's Supreme Court & Appellate lawyers achieved victories in a variety of cutting-edge matters that deliver substantial value to our consumer financial services clients.

Mayer Brown has led the way in developing the law under the Federal Arbitration Act (FAA) surrounding the enforceability of arbitration agreements that waive class actions, which allows businesses and consumers alike to benefit from the lower costs, expediency and informality that arbitration provides as a means for resolving disputes compared to litigation in court. The firm's path-breaking 2016 victory in Spokeo, Inc. v. Robins also continues to pay dividends across the consumer finance sector and beyond, ensuring that lawsuits against businesses must be based on actual harms, not technical missteps. And our Supreme Court & Appellate team routinely handles appeals and files amicus briefs in major cases that affect the consumer financial services industry.

2018 REPRESENTATIVE MATTERS

- Secured Supreme Court review and briefed and argued a significant case in the Court addressing whether the FAA protects companies from being compelled to class-wide arbitration when an arbitration agreement does not expressly authorize that procedure.

- Drafted an amicus brief on behalf of trade associations representing the consumer financial services and banking industries in a Supreme Court case assessing whether requirements of the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act apply to non-judicial foreclosures.
- Represented companies on the merits and leading business associations as amici curiae in numerous appeals raising significant issues surrounding the Article III standing after Spokeo and the requirements for class certification under the Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23.

For the eleventh consecutive year, Mayer Brown was named to the “Appellate Hot List” in 2018.

Previously, Mike was general counsel and secretary of First Guaranty Mortgage Corporation, and general counsel, chief compliance officer, and secretary for Stonegate Mortgage Corporation.

Melissa L. Richards
Partner
Palo Alto

Previously, Melissa was the chief legal & risk officer at national mortgage banking firm CMG Financial.

Megan S. Webster
Partner
Chicago

Previously, Megan was vice president and associate general counsel at BMO Financial Group and senior vice president and associate general counsel at HSBC.

Why did you decide to join Mayer Brown?

Mike McElroy

“When I was general counsel for a few mortgage bankers and servicers, I had a pretty clear sense of what I wanted from a firm—strong finance, consumer regulatory, and corporate expertise, with excellent litigation capabilities in the financial services space. I looked for the same qualities when I decided to return to private practice, and no firm fit the bill like Mayer Brown.”

Melissa Richards

“I was looking to return to private practice as a compliance, licensing and risk management specialist for the financial services industry doing business in California. To do that, and best serve the industry, including the ever growing fintech sector established in the San Francisco Bay Area, I needed a global law firm with Northern California offices. I chose Mayer Brown over other firms because of the personal relationships I have built over two decades with key FSRE partners including Jon Jaffe in Palo Alto/San Francisco.”

Megan Webster

“A substantial portion of my practice both as outside counsel and in-house counsel has been related to consumer financial services litigation, investigations, regulatory matters and advisory work. I chose Mayer Brown for several reasons including the firm’s depth and breadth of experience in issues faced by financial institutions, Mayer Brown’s experience in high-stakes complex commercial litigation and investigations, and the firm’s commitment to women, other diverse lawyers and diversity of thought.”

How has your experience practicing at Mayer Brown been so far?

Mike McElroy

“Fantastic. If you asked others at Mayer Brown, we hoped my addition would build on the complementary capabilities that were already here and add a holistic depth that comes from being a general counsel at a financial services company, and that’s definitely happened. We’ve been very busy, and I hope our clients are happy with the results.”

Melissa Richards

“Better than I could have ever imagined. I pinch myself every day. I am so impressed with Mayer Brown as an organization and with its attorneys. The FSRE practice group has a deep bench with extremely talented and experienced attorneys specializing in financial services industry as a whole. I get to work with interesting clients each day on a variety of issues and in a wide variety of consumer and commercial financial service platforms that I have not experienced before. I learn something new every day, and that’s after practicing law in this space for three decades.”

Megan Webster

“My experience so far has exceeded my expectations. While I was an in-house lawyer, I worked with the leaders of the Consumer Litigation & Class Actions group, Lucia Nale and Debra Bogo-Ernst (and many others), who are exceptional lawyers. Together, we provide outstanding service to our clients through a team-based approach embedded in the firm’s culture. We have national (and global) expertise to be able to assemble teams quickly, efficiently and effectively to address and solve problems.”

What is the top piece of advice that you would give law firm lawyers regarding working with in-house counsel?

Mike McElroy

“Remember that while, for many outside counsel, your job is to be an expert about one substantive area (or a few substantive areas), most in-house counsel have to be experts about a multitude of substantive areas. So adding complexity to their days (even for assignments that are, objectively speaking, complex) is generally unhelpful. Simplifying a complex area is almost always a welcome approach.”

Melissa Richards

“Focus on delivering a high level of service to your clients, and with a high level of communication. In house practice is quite different; counsel is giving legal advice and support to the business partners in rapid fire pace. Opportunities in house for deep thinking and analysis are rare. That’s where outside counsel comes in. You are serving a key support function to legal departments, the trusted advisor.”

Megan Webster

“Listen to your clients and try to make their lives easier when possible. As an in-house lawyer it is rare to have isolated issues so you need to think about your clients’ matters holistically and through different lens. In-house lawyers do not have the luxury of only being reactive so you need to help your clients spot emerging risks and identify potential avenues to reduce those risks in addition to focusing on what could just be an isolated case or issue.”

What are CFS-related legal issues or developments that you’re watching in 2019?

Mike McElroy

“This isn’t completely a legal issue, but I’m eager to see if fintech solutions achieve greater penetration in the mortgage market—both in terms of origination share and increasing velocity from application to close.”

Melissa Richards

“The key development in my practice is without question California’s 2018 Consumer Privacy Act. That legislation was passed in 7 days, leaving many interpretive questions including the scope and impact on financial services industry that is already subject to California’s Consumer Financial Privacy Act and the federal Gramm Leach Bliley Act. The CCPA will touch the vast majority of consumer facing businesses here in the state and the scope of “personal information” to be identified by category, sequestered, and deleted upon verified request by the consumer is wide ranging. The California Attorney General is tasked with rulemaking and enforcement starting July 1, 2020. I am monitoring legislative and regulatory development, and fielding calls from clients on creating CCPA compliance management systems.”

Megan Webster

“There are several, but certainly consumer class and mass action issues including arbitration developments, enforcement and remediation trends, cybersecurity and other state and federal privacy laws, designing and implementing compliant and effective risk management frameworks, and the variety of issues facing fintech.”
