Introduction

Asia's legal and human resources advisors are often required to function across multiple jurisdictions. Staying on top of employment-related legal developments is important but can be challenging.

To help keep you up to date, Mayer Brown produces the Asia Employment Law: Quarterly Review, an e-publication covering 15 jurisdictions in Asia.

In this thirty-third edition, we flag and comment on employment law developments during the third quarter of 2021 and highlight some of the major legislative, consultative, policy and case law changes to look out for in 2021.

This publication is a result of ongoing cross-border collaboration between 15 law firms across Asia with whose lawyers Mayer Brown has had the pleasure of working with closely for many years. For a list of contributing lawyers and law firms, please see the contacts page.

We hope you find this edition useful.

Federal Court provides guidance regarding the Fair Work Act's transfer of business provisions

On 20 January 2021, the Federal Court of Australia handed down its decision in Community and Public Sector Union, NSW Branch v Northcott Supported Living Ltd [2021] FCA 8 (Northcott).

Under the Fair Work Act 2009 (Cth), a transfer of business occurs when the following requirements are satisfied:

1. the employment of an employee of the old employer has terminated;
2. within 3 months of the termination, the employee becomes employed by the new employer;
3. the work the employee performs for the new employer is the same, or substantially the same, as the work the employee performed for the old employer; and
4. there is a relevant 'connection' between the old employer and the new employer.

Where there is a transfer of business in the relevant sense, any enterprise agreement that applied to the transferring employees while they worked for the old employer would become binding upon the new employer in relation to those employees (and in very limited circumstances to non-transferring employees of the new employer).

Northcott was the first occasion upon which a court of tribunal has provided detailed guidance in relation to the 'same or substantially the same' requirement.

The Court determined that, when approaching this issue, courts and tribunals should not engage in a 'technical' comparison of the employee's duties for their first and second employer. Instead, they should focus upon whether the 'fundamental nature' of the employee's work had changed from what it had been before. This means, for example, that work can be regarded as the same or substantially the same even though:

- the manner in which employees perform their duties has changed;
- the new position includes additional duties;
- some duties are no longer required; and
- a typical working day in the new position has a 'different composition'.

If, however, the changes are 'fundamental' in character, then the work will be regarded as no longer being the same or substantially the same. This will be a question of fact and degree in each case.

Northcott concerned a group of employees who worked as 'Team Leaders' at disability care homes operated by a company called Northcott Supported Living Living (NSL). NSL was a subsidiary of Northcott Society Limited (Northcott). In July 2019 Northcott decided to restructure its operations. This included dissolving NSL and offering employment to most of NSL's employees with Northcott. For most employees there was to be no change in terms and conditions of employment, and the work was exactly the same as it had been at NSL. However, for one cohort of employees (affected employees) there were to be significant changes to terms and conditions of employment and in responsibility.

The Union which represented the affected employees applied to the Federal Court arguing that the proposed restructure constituted a transfer of business in the relevant sense, so that the affected employees would continue to enjoy the benefits of the enterprise agreement that had applied to them when they were employed by NSL. Northcott argued that there was not a transfer of business in the relevant sense because the work to be performed by the affected employees for Northcott was not the same or substantially the same as that performed for NSL.

The Federal Court found in favour of the Union, determining that the transferring employees were performing substantially the same work in both positions. In reaching this conclusion, the Court took account of the similarities in seniority, duties, purpose, organisational context and position descriptions between the two positions.

In coming to this conclusion, the Court rejected the employer's argument that the employees were doing substantially different work due to the fact that the position description for the new role included additional managerial duties and limited patient-care responsibilities. The Court also took the view that the position description did not reflect the reality of a Service Coordinator's day-to-day duties.

The decision in Northcott is helpful in its rejection of an overly technical approach to the same or substantially the same requirement, but it is important to appreciate that to establish that positions are not the same or substantially the same there needs to be genuine differences of substance: differences of form are not enough.

High Court of Australia will hear two appeals on whether workers were employees or independent contractors

On 12 February 2021, the High Court of Australia granted special leave to appeal two decisions of the Full Court of the Federal Court of Australia. Both appeals will require the High Court to determine whether the workers involved in the two disputes were employees or independent contractors. The appeals will be heard together, likely in the second half of 2021. Jamsek v ZG Operations Australia Pty Ltd ('Jamsek')

In Jamsek, the Full Court found that two truck drivers who had been classified as contractors were, in fact, employees. The drivers had worked exclusively for ZG Operations (and its predecessors) for almost 40 years.

Amongst the factors that led the Full Court to conclude that the drivers were employees were the fact that:

- the business operated by ZG Operations was the drivers' sole source of income for the 40 year period;
- the drivers worked more or less regular hours with consistent duties and work arrangements;
- the drivers were first engaged as employees. In 1986 the drivers were faced with either redundancy or agreeing to a new contract describing them as independent contractors. Beyond the drivers having to purchase their own delivery trucks, the working arrangements following their re-engagement as contractors were substantially the same as those in place when the drivers were employees;
- the drivers had no capacity to generate goodwill in their own business;
- ZG Operations required them to work from 6 am until at least 3 pm each day with the consequence that the drivers' ostensible capacity to work for other business was, in practical terms, illusory.

Construction, Forestry, Maritime, Mining and Energy Union v Personnel Contracting Pty Ltd ('Personnel Contracting')

In Personnel Contracting, the Full Court determined that a young British backpacker engaged by a labour hire company to work on construction sites was an independent contractor. The Court was clearly not happy with this outcome, but felt constrained by earlier authority to reach the conclusion that it did.

In the course of his judgment Chief Justice Allsop noted that if 'unconstrained' by previous authority, he would 'favour an approach which viewed the relationship ... as that of casual employment', whilst Justice Lee observed that the development of a dichotomy between employee and independent contractor 'has produced ambiguity, inconsistency and contradiction' and that this 'traditional dichotomy' may not easily comprehend or accommodate the increasing prevalence of trilateral labour hire relationships, as well as the 'evolution of digital platforms and the increasing diversity in worker relationships'. It will be interesting to see how the High Court responds to these expressions of dissatisfaction with the existing state of the law.

Federal Opposition unveils proposed industrial relations reforms ahead of likely 2021 election

The opposition Australian Labor Party has indicated a number of proposed industrial relations reforms amidst increasing speculation that there will be a federal election in 2021.

On 10 February, Anthony Albanese, leader of the Labor Party, delivered a speech in which he identified three major themes that would drive the program of a future Labor Government: addressing casualisation, giving more rights to gig economy workers and ensuring labour hire workers are paid at least as much as direct employees working alongside them. In doing so he averred that Labor is 'on the side of working families'.

In March 2021, the Labor Party followed up on these commitments by releasing what it described as the final draft of its National Platform, including proposals aimed at:

- achieving a national minimum standard for long service leave;
- introducing 26 weeks of fully paid parental leave;
- ensuring consistent treatment of public holidays between States and Territories;
- protecting gig economy workers;
- supporting penalty rates;
- establishing an independent umpire to adjudicate bargaining disputes; and
- expanding access to flexible working arrangements.

Federal Parliament passes heavily amended Fair Work Amendment (Supporting Australia's Jobs and Economic Recovery) Bill 2020, dropping majority of proposed reforms

- The amendments effectively removed four of the five principal reforms that were included in the original Bill, namely: changes in relation to additional hours agreements;
- the relaxation of the 'better off overall' test;
- the creation of criminal 'wage theft' offences; and
- the extension of the nominal life of Greenfields agreements relating to major projects.

What is left is a number of changes concerning the rights and obligations of employers in relation to their casual employees. The key changes :

- Give employers the ability to define an employee as a casual (with no leave entitlements or job security) at the time employment commences, provided that the offer of employment makes 'no firm advance commitment to continuing and indefinite work according to an agreed pattern of work' and the employee accepts this offer.
  - Requires employers to offer permanent employment to casual employees, provided the employee concerned has been employed for a period of 12 months and has worked a regular pattern of hours for the last 6 months.
  - Responding to the decision of the Full Court of the Federal Court in WorkPac Pty Ltd v Rossato [2020] FCAFC 84, where the Court held that that an employee who was ostensibly engaged as a casual was, in reality, a permanent employee and therefore entitled back pay for various entitlements.
- The legislation purports to prevent such 'double-dipping' by clarifying that if a court finds an employee to be a permanent employee, it must offset any amount payable to the employee by an amount equal to any casual loading already paid by the employer. Many employers would welcome this change since it would relieve them of potential claims to back-payments totalling many millions of dollars. It has been suggested, however, that this aspect of the legislation may be susceptible to constitutional challenge on the grounds that it involves the acquisition of property without compensation.

Treasurer Josh Frydenberg has stated that the government may attempt to re-introduce some of the abandoned reforms at a future date – especially those relating to greenfields agreements for major projects.

Minimum wage increase of 2.5 per cent

The Fair Work Commission has announced a 2.5 per cent increase in the minimum wage and related award minimum wages.

This will take the minimum wage for Australia's lowest-paid workers to $20.33 an hour, or $772.60 a week for full-time workers.

It will mean an extra $18.80 a week for Australia's lowest-paid full-time workers.

For the majority of the 2.3 million people on award rates or the national minimum wage, the increase will take effect from 1 July 2021. However, the increase for some industries that are particularly impacted by coronavirus restrictions will be delayed. For example, workers covered under aviation, fitness, tourism and certain retail sector awards will have their pay rise delayed until 1 November 2021.

High Court rejects special leave application from Federal Court 'stand down' decision

The High Court has refused leave to appeal from a decision of the Full Court of the Federal Court of Australia in CEPU v Qantas Airways Limited [2020] FCAFC 205.

That decision considered whether Qantas could lawfully deny 20,000 employees it stood down in March 2020 access to their paid sick leave, carer's leave or compassionate leave entitlements. The Unions argued that an employee could not be taken to be 'stood down' under s524(1) of the Fair Work Act 2009 where they were taking these forms of leave. Qantas, on the other hand, submitted that s 525 of the Act required that any absence that did not constitute a 'stand down' for purposes of s 524 had to be authorised by the employer.

A majority of the Full Court adopted the construction of the FW Act proposed by Qantas. In support of this view, the majority found that it would be "paradoxical if a provision that relieved an employer from making payments to employees during a period when they [could] not usefully be employed operated in a manner that meant that employees could take paid leave even though there was no work for them to perform and no potential to earn income."

In rejecting the Unions' application for leave to appeal from the Federal Court's judgment, the High Court found that there was no reason to doubt the correctness of the Federal Court's construction of the FW Act. The High Court's decision to refuse leave to appeal therefore confirms that employees are not entitled to take paid leave whilst they are stood down under the FW Act without the employer's approval.

The Bill accepts (in whole or in part) the 55 recommendations set out in Sex Discrimination Commissioner Kate Jenkin's Respect@Work: Sexual Harassment National Inquiry Report (2020).

In its current form, the Bill proposes to amend the Fair Work Act 2009 (Cth) (FW Act), Sex Discrimination Act 1984 (Cth) (SD Act) and Australian Human Rights Commission Act 1986 (Cth). Specifically, the Bill proposes the following key changes:

- Extending the SD Act to cover members of Parliament, judges and State public servants.
- Conferring on the Fair Work Commission the power to issue 'stop sexual harassment orders' (similar to existing 'stop bullying orders'), including where there has been only a single instance of sexual harassment. Consistent with the anti-bullying regime, these orders will not be available where the person whose conduct amounted to sexual harassment is no longer at the workplace.
- Aligning the SD Act with the terms used in the model Work Health and Safety law (ie, 'worker' and 'persons conducting a business or undertaking' ('PCBU')) in order to expand the coverage of protections under the SD Act to persons who were not previously covered eg interns, volunteers, and self-employed workers.
- Expressly prohibiting harassment on the ground of sex, rather than only harassment of a sexual nature. The definition of sex-based harassment will capture unwelcome conduct which is not of a sexual nature (and therefore not sexual harassment) eg repeated sexist comments.
- Amending the unfair dismissal provisions in the FW Act to clarify that sexual harassment is a valid reason for dismissal in determining whether a dismissal was harsh, unjust or unreasonable.
- Extending the Australian Human Rights Commission's complaint period from six months to two years to account for the sensitive nature of sexual harassment complaints.
- Extending compassionate leave to cover miscarriage.

Notably, the Government has not accepted the Commissioner's recommendation to introduce a positive duty on employers to take reasonable and proportionate measures to eliminate sex discrimination, sexual harassment, and victimisation. In its official response to the Respect@Work Inquiry, the Government suggested that imposing a duty of this nature would "create further complexity, uncertainty or duplication in the overarching legal framework".

Australian businesses and governments mandate COVID-19 vaccinations at work

Since May this year, when Alliance Airlines became one of the first employers in Australia to require its staff to undergo COVID-19 vaccinations, an increasing number of businesses have indicated that they will implement mandatory vaccination policies for their employees. The push for mandatory vaccination is occurring in the context of significant outbreaks of the Delta variant and on-going lockdowns across the country.

Employers have duties under occupational health and safety laws to eliminate and minimise risks to health and safety in the workplace and to provide a safe working environment.

Employees are contractually obliged to observe the lawful reasonable directions of their employer, and are required by statute to take reasonable care for their own occupational health and safety and that of other persons whose health and safety may be impacted by their acts or omissions at work.

It follows that in most instances, a requirement to be vaccinated will be a lawful, reasonable direction that employees are obliged to observe under their contract of employment, and also something that they must do in order to comply with their statutory duties under occupational health and safety legislation.

Karijini reached agreement with the employees in early August 2018, and applied to the Fair Work Commission (FWC) for approval of the agreement. After a delay of 13 months the agreement was approved in September 2019. The union then appealed against this decision. After further tribunal proceedings, a Full Bench of the FWC in July 2021, determined that the agreement could not be approved.

It reached this decision on two principal grounds: first, that the employer had misled the employees about the terms and operation of the Agreement, such that it could not be held that the employees had 'genuinely agreed' to it; and second, that the group of employees with whom the agreement was made had not been 'fairly chosen' in the relevant sense.

The employer in this instance came unstuck because they tried to be a little too clever. But that small cohort agreements can be negotiated and approved under the FW Act is illustrated by the August 2021 approval of an agreement that was negotiated with just two employees in ALE Heavylift (Australia) Pty Ltd Enterprise Agreement [2021] FWCA 4865. The point is that in this instance the employer had taken care to comply with the substantive requirements of the legislation, whereas in Karijini it had not.

Federal court rules Qantas' outsourcing of employees was adverse action

On 30 July 2021, the Federal Court of Australia handed down its decision in Transport Workers' Union of Australia v Qantas Airways Ltd [2021] FCA 873 (TWU v Qantas), with further clarification issued on 25 August 2021.

In August 2020, amid the COVID-19 pandemic, Qantas announced it would outsource some 2,500 ground crew and baggage handler positions at 10 Australian airports, in addition to 6,000 redundancies it had announced two months earlier. In making this announcement, Qantas indicated that the Transport Workers Union (TWU) would be afforded an opportunity to bid for the outsourced work, as required pursuant to the relevant enterprise agreements. The TWU subsequently prepared and submitted a bid, but was advised in November 2020 that the bid had been unsuccessful and that the contract had been let to other providers.

In December 2020, the TWU initiated proceedings in the Federal Court, claiming that Qantas' actions were unlawful by force of the general protections' provisions in the Fair Work Act 2009 (Cth) (FW Act).

Section 340(1) of FW Act relevantly provides that a 'person' must not take 'adverse action' against another person because that person has, or has not, exercised 'a workplace right'. Section 346, meanwhile, makes it unlawful to take adverse action against a person because that person 'is...an officer or member of an industrial association'.

In this case, the TWU alleged that Qantas had subjected its members to adverse action because they: were union members; had the capacity to engage in enterprise bargaining upon expiry of their current agreement; could participate in a protected action ballot, and could engage in protected industrial action for the purpose of supporting or advancing claims in relation to a proposed enterprise agreement.

According to section 361 of the FW Act, in circumstances such as this where one person (ie TWU) alleges that another person (ie Qantas) took action for a particular reason or with a particular intent, it is presumed that the person has taken the action for the alleged reasons or with the alleged intentions, unless the person proves otherwise.

The Federal Court was ultimately satisfied that Qantas had proved that the outsourcing decision was not driven by the fact that some or all of the employees were members of a union, or that at the time of the outsourcing decision they had the ability to initiate or participate in bargaining for an enterprise agreement. Critically, however, the Federal Court was not satisfied that Qantas had discharged the onus of proving that the decision was not motivated by a wish to deprive workers from exercising their workplace rights to bargain and engage in industrial action.

Qantas has lodged an appeal against this decision, but in the meantime the trial judge has indicated that he will hand down a decision in relation to the remedy to be provided to the Union and its members before the hearing of the appeal (which is expected in February 2022).

Pending the outcome of the appeal, the decision stands as a clear reminder of the potential reach of the general protection provisions in Part 3-1 of the FW Act in general, and of the 'reverse onus' provisions in section 361 in particular.

High Court of Australia confirms correct approach to determining who is a casual employee

The High Court has clarified the nature of casual employment in WorkPac Pty Ltd v Rossato [2021] HCA 23 (Rossato), which it handed down on 4 August 2021. In doing so it overturned the earlier decisions of the Full Court of the Federal Court in Rossato and WorkPac Pty Ltd v Skene [2018] FCAFC 131 (Skene).

In both Rossato and in Skene the Full Court had determined that for purposes of the Fair Work Act 2009 (FW Act) a casual employee was one who had no "firm advance commitment" to ongoing and indefinite work, and whose employment was characterised by irregular work patterns, discontinuity and intermittency of work. In other words, according to the Full Court it was permissible to have regard to the whole relationship when assessing whether a person is a casual employee. In Rossato the High Court overturned this part of the Full Court's reasoning, and determined that the question of whether there was a "firm advance commitment" should be assessed strictly by reference to the terms of the employee's contract, rather than the subsequent conduct of the parties.

In practical terms the decision of the High Court had largely been pre-empted by the passing of the Fair Work Amendment (Supporting Australia's Jobs and Economic Recovery) Act 2021 (Cth) (2021 Act), which was noted in the Review for Q1 2021. Nevertheless, the reasoning of the High Court in Rossato may still be relevant in circumstances where an employee is engaged in a way that falls outside the common law and statutory meaning of casual employment. One example could be casuals engaged under enterprise agreements that pre-date the 2021 Act and include an understanding of casual employment that does not accord with the common law or the FW Act.

Fair Work Commission Full Bench determines that a pre-emptive lockout is not protected industrial action

In Australian Manufacturing Workers' Union v McCain Foods (Aust) Pty Ltd [2021] FWCFB 4808, a Full Bench of the Fair Work Commission (FWC) has affirmed that a lockout of employees by McCain Foods (Aust) Pty Ltd (McCain) at its potato processing plant (the Plant) in Tasmania did not constitute 'protected industrial action' for purposes of the Fair Work Act 2009 (Cth) (FW Act).

In July 2021, the Australian Manufacturing Workers' Union (AMWU) notified McCain that it intended to organise industrial action (namely, a strike) at the Plant. The action had been approved in accordance with the relevant statutory requirements, but before the strike commenced McCain implemented industrial action of its own by 'locking out' employees from the Plant.

The AMWU then sought an order from the FWC to restrain the employer's unlawful industrial action. In support of its application, the Union submitted that for the action to be 'protected' under the FW Act it must be in response to employee industrial action that was currently taking place or had already taken place. The Union argued that, because McCain instituted its lockout before the AMWU's strike commenced, the lockout constituted 'unprotected' industrial action.

By a 2:1 majority the Full Bench agreed with the Union, overturning the first instance decision of the FWC. In doing so the Full Bench affirmed what had commonly been understood to be the intention of the Parliament in enacting the relevant provisions of the FW Act – as evidenced, for example by the Explanatory Memorandum for the Fair Work Bill and by a number of tribunal decisions.

Nevertheless, as indicated by the first instance decision in this case, and by the dissent in the Full Bench, the meaning of the relevant provision is not entirely clear. In light of the majority decision in McCain it must now be assumed that employers may not lawfully lock out employees in circumstances where they (and/or their union) have merely given notice of their intention to take protected industrial action, but have not yet taken such action. Employers can only lock out employees where those employees have taken, or are taking, industrial action.

Court of Appeal finds that overseas service does not count towards Victorian long service leave entitlements

On 11 August 2021, the Victorian Court of Appeal handed down its decision Infosys Technologies Limited v Victoria [2021] VSCA 219. At issue was whether Infosys Technologies Limited ("Infosys") was liable to make payments of long service leave to two of its employees under the Long Service Leave Act 2018 (Vic) (LSL Act). Infosys is a company incorporated in India, and registered as a foreign company in Australia. The two employees had each completed more than seven years of employment with Infosys, commencing in India and thereafter continuing in Victoria until the termination of their employment. The LSL Act provides that employees who have completed at least '7 years of continuous service' with one employer are entitled to long service leave. The key question for the Court was whether the LSL Act operates to confer entitlement to long service leave based on employment that partially occurs outside of the State of Victoria.

The Court of Appeal held that the phrase 'continuous employment' under the LSL Act must be construed in light of s 48(b) of the Interpretation of Legislation Act 1984 (Vic) (ILA) which relevantly provides:

In an Act or subordinate instrument, unless the contrary intention appears—

(b) a reference to a locality, jurisdiction or other matter or thing shall be construed as a reference to such locality, jurisdiction or other matter or thing in and of Victoria.

The Court found that the LSL Act did not manifest any such contrary intention, and therefore the reference to '7 years of continuous service' is properly construed as seven years of continuous service with one employer in and of Victoria. As the two employees had not completed seven years of continuous service with Infosys in and of Victoria, Infosys was not liable to pay them long service leave entitlements under the LSL Act.

In so finding, the Court of Appeal declined to follow a previous decision of the Full Federal Court of Australia, Cummins South Pacific v Keenan (2020) 302 IR 400 (Cummins), on the basis that it was 'plainly wrong'. In Cummins, it was held that service completed overseas could be counted towards the calculation of long service leave entitlements if, at the time a potential entitlement to long service leave arises, it can be fairly said that the service as a whole has a 'substantial connection' to Victoria. In applying this 'substantial connection' test, Cummins followed long-standing authority with respect to the interpretation and operation of the equivalent New South Wales long service leave legislation.

There are significant differences in long service leave legislation as between the various States and Territories. Nevertheless, it is distinctly possible that the decision in Infosys may impact the interpretation and operation of long service leave schemes in other Australian jurisdictions.

It is important to appreciate however that the Court of Appeal did not determine that to count for purposes of establishing an entitlement under the Victorian legislation the entire period of service had to be in Victoria – rather it found that there must be a 'substantial connection' between the service and Victoria. This means that it would still be possible for overseas service to 'count', so long as that connection existed at the relevant time. What could not count, according to the Court of Appeal, was service that entirely predated the existence of any connection with Victoria (as was the case with the two employees who were claiming an entitlement in Infosys).

Federal Parliament passes Sex Discrimination and Fair Work (Respect at Work) Amendment Act 2021

On 2 September 2021, the Sex Discrimination and Fair Work (Respect at Work) Amendment Act 2021 (Cth) (Act) passed through both Houses of Federal Parliament. The Act implements some of the 55 recommendations set out in Sex Discrimination Commissioner Kate Jenkin's Respect@Work: Sexual Harassment National Inquiry Report (2020) ('Jenkins Report').

The Act will amend various acts including the Fair Work Act 2009 (Cth) (FW Act), the Sex Discrimination Act 1984 (Cth) (SD Act) and the Australian Human Rights Commission Act 1986 (Cth). Key changes include:

- Extending the SD Act to cover members of Parliament, judges and State public servants.
- Conferring on the Fair Work Commission ('FWC') the power to issue 'stop sexual harassment orders' (similar to existing 'stop bullying orders'), including where there has been only a single instance of sexual harassment. Consistent with the anti-bullying regime, these orders will not be available where the person whose conduct amounted to sexual harassment is no longer at the workplace.
- Aligning the SD Act with the terms used in the model Work Health and Safety law (ie, 'worker' and 'persons conducting a business or undertaking' ('PCBU')) in order to expand the coverage of protections under the SD Act to persons who were not previously covered eg interns, volunteers, and self-employed workers.
- Expressly prohibiting harassment on the ground of sex, rather than only harassment of a sexual nature. The definition of sex-based harassment will capture unwelcome conduct which is not of a sexual nature (and therefore not sexual harassment) eg repeated sexist comments.

- Amending the unfair dismissal provisions in the FW Act to clarify that sexual harassment is a valid reason for dismissal in determining whether a dismissal was harsh, unjust or unreasonable.
- Extending the time limit for making complaints to the Australian Human Rights Commission from six months to two years.
- Extending compassionate leave to cover miscarriage.

The Act commenced on 11 September 2021, with the exception of the provision conferring the FWC's new power to make stop sexual harassment orders. This provision will come into effect in mid-November so that the FWC has adequate time to update its forms and procedural rules, train Members and staff, develop tailored resources, establish support services, and consult experts about case management processes.

SPC Issues Judicial Interpretation (I) on Trial of Labor Dispute Cases

The Supreme People's Court ("SPC") has recently issued the Interpretation on Issues concerning the Application of Law in the Trial of Labor Dispute Cases (I) (the "Interpretation"), with effect from January 1, 2021. The Interpretation consists of 54 articles in total, specifying the scope, jurisdiction, prosecution and acceptance, and arbitration of labor disputes. Among others, the Interpretation stipulates that where an employee directly institutes a lawsuit on the strength of a slip on wage default issued by the employer as evidence, and the claims do not involve any other dispute over labor relationship, it shall be regarded as a dispute over the default on labor remunerations and shall be accepted by court as a general civil dispute; where, after the expiration of a labor contract, the employee still work for the original employer and the original employer does not express any objection, it shall be deemed that the parties agree to continue the performance of the labor contract in accordance with the original terms and conditions; if a party proposes to terminate the labor relationship, the court shall support it. The Interpretation also points out that where a labor contract is confirmed as invalid but the employee has already provided labor services, the employer shall pay the labor remuneration and financial compensation to the employee in accordance with the relevant provisions.

Hong Kong Court Dismissed Former Director's Claim for Annual Commission and Housing Allowance

In Ah Fat Jean Max v Xian Corp Ltd [2021] HKCFI 22, the Court of First Instance (the CFI) dismissed the employee's claim for annual commission and housing allowance against his employer.

Background

The employee was the former managing director of the employer. The employment contract of the employee provided for, among other things, the payment of an annual commission of an amount equivalent to 10% of the net profit of a subsidiary of the employer to be incorporated (the Commission) and the payment of a monthly housing allowance (the Allowance). It was also expressly provided in the employment contract that its terms may not be modified or amended except by a written agreement signed by the parties.

Upon commencement of employment, the parties agreed to abandon the establishment of the Subsidiary. The parties also agreed that the employee be granted a licence to live in an apartment rented by the employee in lieu of the payment of the Allowance.

In January and November 2016, the employer made two advanced payments totalling US$90,000 (the Advance Payments) for the employee's annual commission, covering the period from the commencement of his employment up to 30 June 2016.

In November 2017, the employer terminated the employment of the employee.

The employee commenced action in the Labour Tribunal against the employer for payment of the statutory severance pay, the Commission and the Allowance. Although the Labour Tribunal ordered the employer to pay severance payment, his other claims were dismissed. The employee lodged an appeal to the CFI against the Labour Tribunal's decision.

CFI's Decision

The CFI dismissed the employee's appeal.

1. The Commission Claim

As the Subsidiary was never incorporated, there is an obvious gap in the Commission Clause as to how the amount of the Commission should be calculated.

The employee contended that the Commission should be based on the audited results of the employer's net profit (inclusive of all its subsidiaries). However, the Labour Tribunal and CFI were in favour of the employer's construction that the Commission was calculated based on the employees' profit centres for which he had been responsible. In coming to this conclusion, the Labour Tribunal and CFI looked at the parties' pre-contractual negotiations and found an agreed objective, where:

- it was stated in the parties' correspondence prior to the entering of the employment contract that the Subsidiary would be set up for the purpose of recording the profit made at the employee's own profit centres (i.e., the Asian and PRC markets); and
- the employee did not raise any objection to the above suggestion and, by inference, he must have accepted that the Commission was calculated based on the profits of his own profit centres.

In any event, the employee had already received the Advanced Payments, which exceeded the amount that he would be paid by reference to the audited results of the employer. As such, he was not entitled to payment of the Commission.

2. The Allowance Claim

The Labour Tribunal and CFI dismissed the employee's appeal on this ground since the definition of wages under the Employment Ordinance specifically excludes "the value of any accommodation".

Due to a variation in respect of the Allowance by the conduct of the parties in January 2015, the employee was granted a licence instead of being paid the Allowance. This was a benefit in kind and did not form part of his wages. Upon termination, he was no longer entitled to any wages or the licence granted ancillary to his employment.

Lessons for Employers

As this case illustrates, clarity of a term in the employment contract is as important as its flexibility, especially when it concerns an employee's entitlement calculated with reference to a formula and payable at a certain time. If the formula fails for some reason (e.g., the disposal of a subsidiary referred to in the formula) and no further variation is made to give effect to the parties' arrangement, such a term may only be enforceable with reference to pre-contractual negotiations or other available evidence. This adds to the uncertainty as to the employees' entitlement and is likely to attract dispute.

Further, the variation of any contractual term should be clearly documented and employers should comply with the prescribed method for variation provided under the employment contract. If the variation concerns the reduction of an employee's entitlement, other additional benefits should be given in order to make the variation valid. It is not always the case that the court will find a waiver or estoppel to validate variations made without complying the relevant variation clause.

In Breton Jean v 香港丽翔公务航空有限公司 (HK Bellawings Jet Limited) [2021] HKDC 46, the District Court (DC) in Hong Kong allowed the statutory rest day pay claim by the employee, who was required to be accessible on his work phone, but dismissed his claim for wrongful dismissal against his employer.

Facts

The employee was a pilot. He joined the employer, a business jet management company, in July 2015 and was subsequently promoted to the position of Lead Captain. He had both flight duties and ground duties, such as monitoring aircraft maintenance.

The employee had no regular working hours and was required to work on demand. The employment contract provided that if he was designated on standby, he must answer the employer's calls within one hour and perform the necessary flying duties.

The employer's operations manual, which formed part of the contract of employment, provided that the employee was entitled to a certain duration of rest period for a corresponding number of consecutive working days. However, the employer had no roster system to inform him of these rest periods. The operations manual also provided that he had to return company phone calls and be ready to perform work duties within a specified time limit unless he was on scheduled annual leave or days off, and was prohibited from consuming alcohol 12 hours prior to reporting time.

The employee was asked to deal with some maintenance work on 8 December 2016 but he did not turn up to work. He could not be reached on his work phone either. The employer emailed him asking for his whereabouts but his response was evasive. He claimed that it was customary to be rostered with no duties two days prior to his annual leave, which was scheduled to commence on 14 December 2016. He was asked to attend a meeting on 13 December 2016 but he did not show up.

Upon returning to work from annual leave on 31 December 2016, the employee was summarily dismissed by the employer for his unauthorised absence from duty without a valid reason.

Court's Decision

The DC allowed the Rest Day Pay Claim but dismissed the Wrongful Termination Claim.

1. Rest Day Pay Claim

The DC accepted the employee's evidence that he was required to be contactable by his work phone whenever he was not flying. The employer's case was that the requirement of being contactable did not equate with being designated on standby and there was a "mutual understanding" that all of the employee's non-flight days were considered as rest days. However, the employer's evidence did not support the existence of the alleged "mutual understanding".

The issue was whether, on proper construction of the provisions in the employment contract and the operations manual, the requirement to be contactable equated to being on standby duty.

The DC considered that if the employee is truly on a rest day, he should be entitled to abstain from working. For example, the employee would be free to consume alcohol during his scheduled rest days and would refrain from doing so if he was put on standby duty.

The employment contract and the operations manual required the employee to answer his work phone, perform duties within a specific time limit and not consume alcohol 12 hours before the reporting time. The employee was effectively on standby duty when he was not on active duty, as he was not free to do whatever he wanted, like consuming alcohol.

The DC found in favour of the employee and held the employer liable for the Rest Day Pay Claim for more than 120 untaken rest days, which was assessed at over HK$660,000.

2. Wrongful Termination Claim

The DC did not accept the employee's case that he was entitled to be absent from work from 8 to 13 December 2016 because he was taking his rest days. No contemporaneous evidence supported this position, which the employee had not articulated during his employment. Evidence did not support the alleged customary day off before the scheduled annual leave either.

The DC found that the employee's absence from 8 to 13 December 2016 was without valid reason and unauthorised, and dismissed the wrongful termination claim.

Takeaways for Employers

Employers must ensure that their employee is entitled to abstain from working for 24 hours on a statutory rest day. Any constraint that the employer imposes on what the employee may do during those 24 hours (e.g., the employee must be on standby to answer work calls, report for duty within a specified timeframe or must not consume alcohol), may disqualify it as being a statutory rest day.

Failure to grant at least one statutory rest day in every period of seven days is an offence. The EO does not require an employer to pay for a statutory rest day; that is a matter for the parties' agreement. However, uncertainty about the appointment of statutory rest days as well as whether those days are paid, can give rise to potential claims (and criminal liability), as the above case illustrates. Another area where liability may arise is if the employer grants more than one rest day in a period of seven days, say, two days off, and it is unclear which of those two days off is the statutory rest day. In this scenario, there may be a risk that both days may be treated as statutory rest days. This may give rise to additional liability if, for example, a statutory holiday falls on one of those two statutory rest days and the employer would need to grant another day off. Therefore, it is important for employers to appoint the statutory rest day clearly and set out whether it is paid, and if yes, how much will be paid for that day.

Summary dismissal is a serious step for employers to take against an employee. The courts regard it as akin to capital punishment (in the employment law world) as it deprives the employee of various entitlements, such as wages in lieu of notice. An employee is more likely to sue the employer not only to clear their name but also to recover the amounts they have been deprived of because of the summary dismissal. Employers should consider whether it makes commercial sense to summarily dismiss an employee, given the time and financial costs of defending a claim made by an employee will often be greater than the amount of wages in lieu of notice required to terminate the employee by notice. Of course, there may be situations where the employer must proceed with summary dismissal (e.g., when there is a statutory prohibition on terminating an employee entitled to statutory sickness allowance by notice). In those situations the employer should ensure that it has cogent evidence to support the summary dismissal before proceeding.

Hong Kong Government Launches Greater Bay Area Youth Employment Scheme

The Government has launched the Greater Bay Area Youth Employment Scheme (the "Scheme"), one of the measures announced during the Chief Executive's 2020 Policy Address to create employment opportunities for university graduates. The Scheme provides 2,000 places, with approximately 700 designated for innovation and technology (I&T) posts. Enterprises participating in the Scheme can apply for a monthly allowance for each eligible graduate.

The Scheme entails a cross-border employment arrangement under a Hong Kong contract. As such, apart from the obligations under the relevant Hong Kong legislation including the Employment Ordinance (e.g. to provide the statutory leave benefits) and Occupational Safety and Health Ordinance (e.g. to provide a safe and healthy work environment), employers will also need to comply with any applicable local PRC law. It is important that employers seek legal and tax advice to understand their obligations and structure the arrangement appropriately before sending the employees to work in GBA Mainland cities.

The Scheme's guidelines for employers are available at: https://www2.jobs.gov.hk/0/Doc/information/en/gbayes/gbayes\_guidelines\_en.pdf

For general guidance, the Labour Department has also published a guide for Hong Kong people who plan to work in the Mainland, which is available at: <https://www2.jobs.gov.hk/0/en/information/Mainland/Guide/> to apply until 30 April 2023 where the next round of review will be conducted in October 2022.

Hong Kong's Statutory Minimum Wage Remains at HK$37.50 Per Hour

In determining the SMW rate, the Minimum Wage Commission took into account a wide range of factors, including the general economic conditions, labour market conditions, social inclusion and the views of members of the public and stakeholders. The key objective is to strike an appropriate balance between forestalling excessively low wages and minimising the loss of low-paid jobs and to sustain Hong Kong's economic growth and competitiveness.

In light of the contraction of the Hong Kong economy with a business outlook clouded by uncertainties and unemployment and having considered the potential impact on the earnings of the low-paid employees and the operation costs of the businesses, the Minimum Wage Commission recommended, for the first time since its implementation in 2011, that the prevailing SMW rate be frozen.

Employers are reminded of their legal obligations under the Minimum Wage Ordinance (Cap 608). In particular, employers must ensure their employees are paid not less than the SMW, failing which it may give rise to both civil and criminal liabilities.

Reimbursement of Maternity Leave Pay Scheme in Hong Kong Opens for Applications

The Reimbursement of Maternity Leave Pay Scheme is now open for applications. Employers can apply for reimbursement of the statutory maternity leave pay paid to employees for the additional 11th to 14th weeks of maternity leave, subject to a cap of HK$80,000 per employee.

Background

The statutory maternity leave entitlement was increased from 10 weeks to 14 weeks from 11 December 2021. The current rate of statutory maternity leave pay is four-fifths of the employee's average daily wages, subject to a cap of HK$80,000 in respect of the 11th to 14th weeks of maternity leave.

After the payment of the 14 weeks' maternity leave pay, employers may apply for reimbursement of the statutory maternity leave pay paid in respect of the 11th to 14th weeks' maternity leave. The following requirements must be met for an application for reimbursement:

1. The employee relevant to the application is entitled to maternity leave and maternity leave pay under the Employment Ordinance;
2. The employee has taken her maternity leave and the employer (i.e. the applicant) has paid 14 weeks of maternity leave pay to the employee;
3. The employee's confinement occurs on or after 11 December 2020; and
4. The additional four weeks' maternity leave pay paid to the employee by the applicant has not been, and will not be, covered or subsidised by other government funding.

Applications can be made online through the Reimbursement Easy Portal at <https://www.rmlps.gov.hk/home>, or by email (enquiry@rmlps.hk), fax (+852 2178 0328) or post to the Scheme's service centre.

Typo Kills the Deal and Hong Kong Court Upholds Employee's Summary Dismissal

In 張強 v. 思科系统有限公司 [2021] HKCFI 694, the Hong Kong Court of First Instance found that a typographical error in an agreement rendered the entire agreement void and dismissed the employee's claim that his summary dismissal was a wrongful termination.

Facts

The plaintiff employee was appointed to work for the defendant employer in Beijing in 2002. In 2005, the employee was told to relocate to Hong Kong and a relocation allowance as well as payment of certain expenses would be paid to him for that purpose. The relocation allowance was paid.

In September 2005, the employee wrote to the employer complaining about alleged incorrect grading, salary, job title and compensation from 2002 to 2005. To resolve the complaint, the employer provided a settlement offer to the employee who signed it (the "Settlement Agreement"). The employer later discovered that the Settlement Agreement stated a sum of "HK$64,4910.46" (rather than "HK$64,491.46" which was what the parties had agreed). Upon discovering the typo the employer sent a subsequent letter with updated terms to the employee to correct the stated sum but the employee did not sign this letter.

By April 2009 the employee had not relocated to Hong Kong and the employer directed the employee to do so, failing which he would be considered to be in breach of his employment contract. The employee made excuses and did not relocate as directed. In September 2009, the employee reported to the Hong Kong office for three days but left Hong Kong on the same day on all three occasions. In October 2009, the employer wrote to the employee to ask for his whereabouts and directed him to attend online meetings.

In November 2009, the employee told the employer that he was sick. The employer then asked him to provide a medical certificate and reminded him to contact his direct manager in relation to his absence. The employer told the employee that his medical certificate had been received on 6 January 2010. The employee's case was that he had submitted his medical certificate on 4 December 2009 but this evidence was rejected by the court.

On 8 December 2009, the employer sent a letter to the employee saying he had committed serious misconduct by being absent from work without authorisation and was liable to summary dismissal. The employee was eventually summarily dismissed on 11 December 2009.

Claims

The employee claimed a number of items against the employer including the original amount stated in the Settlement Agreement of HK$644,910.46 (based on a typo in the Settlement Agreement) and damages for wrongful termination of the employment contract.

Discussion and Decision

The two interesting issues for employers arising from the case are:

1. Whether the employee could recover the amount stated in the Settlement Agreement, and
2. Whether the employer had grounds to summarily dismiss the employee.

Dealing with each of these in turn.

1. Whether the employee could recover the amount stated in the Settlement Agreement

The Court found that, based on the evidence, the figure of "HK$64,4910.46" written into the Settlement Agreement was a mistake made by the employer when preparing the Settlement Agreement, and that the employer had no intention of making any offer with the sum of HK$644,910.46 included. The Court also found that the employee was aware of the misplaced comma in the amount stated in the Settlement Agreement, and should have known that the sum of "HK$64,4910.46" did not reflect the employer's intentions, and that this was a mistake.

A contract will not be concluded unless the parties agreed on its material terms. If the offeree knows that the offeror did not intend the terms of the offer, they cannot bind the offeror to a contract by purporting to accept the offer. The Court found that the effect of the employer's unilateral mistake was that there was never a contract at all because there was an absence of consensus of the parties.

In the present case, the Court found that as the employee was aware of the mistake, there was no "meeting of the minds" to form a binding agreement and therefore the Settlement Agreement was unenforceable.

2. Whether the employer had grounds to summarily dismiss the employee

The employer relied on the cumulative effect of the following four series of events to justify the employee's summary dismissal:

1. The employee ignored the employer's instructions to relocate from Mainland China to Hong Kong,
2. The employee failed to comply with the employer's instructions to attend online meetings,

3. The employee failed to answer questions relating to his whereabouts from a manager in his reporting line, and
4. The employee failed to show any reasonable excuse for his absence of more than a month.

The Court found that:

- The employer had given clear instructions to the employee that he had no role in Mainland China and had to relocate back to Hong Kong. However, the employee only spent short periods in Hong Kong before leaving and establishing a temporary home in Shenzhen.
- There were two occasions where the employee failed to comply with instructions to attend (online) Telepresence meetings.
- The employee's refusal to answer his manager's questions about his whereabouts demonstrated "wilful defiance".
- The reasons that the employee gave for his absence were not believable. Those reasons included that he was ill, he could no longer access his Gmail account, he did not notice the four emails from his employer and that he had no way of contacting his employer at all. The employee had been absent from work for an entire month, and although knowing that he was expected to contact his direct manager and provide medical certificates, he did nothing.

In deciding whether summary dismissal is justified, "[what] must be looked for ... is whether what has been done by an employee is something which is expressly or implied a repudiation of the fundamental terms of the contract such as to justify an instant dismissal".

In the Court's view, the employee's absence of more than one month without reasonable excuse (i.e. item (d) above) would have been sufficient to justify summary dismissal. However, all four matters taken into consideration rendered the employee's conduct even more serious, were impliedly repudiatory in nature, and justified the summary dismissal.

Lesson for Employers

Naturally no one wants to make a mistake by inserting the wrong amount into a settlement agreement. However, where it is clear that there has been a genuine mistake, there may be recourse available such as in the present case.

We do not get many reported cases dealing with summary dismissal since employers tend to choose to terminate by notice (even where they may have the right to summarily dismiss the employee). This is because:

- Summary dismissal is a very serious step to take and the Courts have said it is a capital punishment in that if the dismissal is justified the employee will be deprived of all the protection under the Employment Ordinance as well as the usual termination payments. As such, there will usually need to be cogent evidence to justify summary dismissal,
- From a practical perspective, summarily dismissing an employee will in essence force the employee to sue the employer to clear their name and recover their usual termination payments, and
- Commercially, the cost of defending a claim (both in terms of time and money) and also potentially having to deal with adverse publicity will perhaps in many instances likely be greater than giving the required notice and paying the employee their usual termination entitlements. In the case discussed above, the employee was summarily dismissed in 2009 and the judgment was only handed down by the Court of First Instance earlier this year, and so this demonstrates that a case can drag on for a very long time!

However, from time to time an employer may decide to summarily dismiss an employee, as in the present case.

Summary Dismissal Upheld of Employee Involved in Competing Business

Summary dismissal cases are usually interesting because of their facts, and even more interesting if one is upheld by the court. In Cosme De Net Co Ltd v Lam Kin Ming [2021] HKDC 445, the District Court upheld the summary dismissal of an employee who was involved in a competing business without his employer's knowledge and consent.

Fundamental Breach of Contract by Competing Can Justify Summary Dismissal

The employer operated an online trading business. The employee was employed as a senior business development manager in charge of the overall implementation of the employer's e-commerce business.

In early 2016, the employee approached members of the employer's marketplace team for details of the employer's sales through an online platform, including the uploading of its listings of products, item descriptions, customer services and contacts. The marketplace team members became suspicious since these technical matters were outside the scope of the employee's role. The marketplace team then searched and discovered an online store selling products the employer was also selling (the "Competing Business"). Most of the product images the Competing Business used were also almost identical to those the employer used which were created by hired professional photographers. Upon further investigation, the employee was found to be involved in the operation of the Competing Business.

The court accepted on the facts that the employee had set up a scheme where the employer's products were sold to the Competing Business at a low profit margin of less than 5% and sometimes at a loss. The Competing Business then sold these products.

The employer summarily dismissed the employee for breach of his contract of employment and fiduciary duty of good faith, and for infringement of the employer's intellectual property rights.

On 14 April 2016, the employee commenced proceedings in the Labour Tribunal for payment in lieu of notice, year-end payment (bonus) and damages for wrongful dismissal. On 20 April 2016, the employer commenced proceedings in the High Court in respect of the employee's engagement in a secret business and infringement of its intellectual property rights. The Labour Tribunal proceedings were subsequently transferred to the High Court and the two actions were consolidated and in turn transferred to the District Court.

The employer claimed against the employee for, among other things:

1. Damages, alternatively, liquidated damages pursuant to the contract of employment equivalent to one month's salary of the employee,
2. An account of profits received by the employee in breach of his fiduciary duty,
3. Damages for infringement of intellectual properties,
4. An injunction restraining the employee from further breach, and
5. An injunction mandating the delivery up of copies of the articles that infringed the employer's intellectual property rights and the destruction of all electronic copies of those articles.

The court held that the summary dismissal was justified.

The employee was held to have breached the implied terms of his contract of employment, the relevant intellectual property, business information and confidentiality clauses contained in the employment agreement and his fiduciary duty to act in good faith and the best interest of the employer.

However, despite the employer succeeding in some of its claims, it was unable to recover any damages. There was no evidence of loss of business or customers as a result of the employee's breach. As for the liquidated damages provision in the employment agreement, it was set out under the post-termination restraint of trade clause and there was no breach of those clauses in the current case. On the claim for account of profits, it was found that the employee was not involved in a way that entitled him to a share of the financial gains from the Competing Business during its short period of operation.

The employer however was granted an injunction enjoining the employee or his servants or agents from using the employer's intellectual property, i.e., the images and descriptions of the product listings created by the employer and an injunction to return and destroy all copies of that property. These orders were of little practical consequence since the Competing Business had already ceased operation on the evidence.

Takeaways for Employers

1. Although there are duties of fidelity and good faith implied into every contract of employment, employers should consider setting out what these duties entail in the contract of employment, particularly for senior employees. This will not only manage the employee's expectations but also make it easier for the employer to refer to an express term where there has been a breach.
2. In the present case, fortunately, a member of the marketplace team followed up on the employee's suspicious request for data. Having clear roles within the business may help with this. It is also important for employers to have in place a process where issues and concerns can be raised and be investigated in a timely manner. The evidence gathered will help the employer to make informed decisions and, should the need arise, the evidence and credibility necessary to defend any summary dismissal claim.

Quarantine Exemptions and COVID-19 Vaccinations for the Hong Kong Financial and Insurance Industries: Who is Next?

The Hong Kong Monetary Authority (HKMA), Securities and Futures Commission (SFC) and Insurance Authority (IA) issued circulars setting out quarantine exemptions for certain individuals and encouraging vaccination of licensed individuals and other staff of regulated entities. The circulars raised a number of issues for employers including business continuity planning, employee health and safety, and personal data privacy considerations.

Exemption from Compulsory Quarantine Requirements

The 28 May 2021 circular issued by the SFC provides that fully vaccinated senior executives of licensed corporations (or overseas affiliates) may, upon meeting eligibility requirements, apply for an exemption from current compulsory quarantine arrangements when they return from overseas travel to Hong Kong (Exemption).

The scope of the Exemption is narrow and the requirements are onerous. Among other things:

1. The Exemption only applies to senior executives traveling primarily for the purpose of managing either the subject licensed corporation or the group entities for which they have responsibility;
2. As part of the application for the Exemption, a detailed itinerary of the proposed executive's entire trip (for a visiting executive) or throughout the entire medical surveillance period (for a returning executive) must be submitted to the SFC;

3. Depending on the COVID-19 risk situation of the executives' previous locations, they must meet various pre-departure, upon arrival and post-arrival testing requirements;
4. Executives are required to either self-isolate or be subjected to medical surveillance for a period ranging from 14 to 21 days depending on their previous locations. Executives who are subjected to self-isolation must stay at a designated quarantine hotel or an accommodation arranged by the sponsoring licensed corporation, except for certain permitted activities. Executives subjected to medical surveillance must limit their scope of activity in Hong Kong to certain permitted activities.
5. The sponsoring licensed corporations are required to ensure compliance with the guidelines for vehicles providing point-to-point transportation.

While the proposal to open up Hong Kong for business is welcomed, it will be interesting to see how many will actually make use of the Exemption in light of these strict requirements.

Vaccination for Customer-facing and Critical Function Staff

The three regulators issued circulars on 1 June 2021 which targeted employees performing customer-facing or critical functions.

HKMA - The most far reaching is the HKMA's circular dated 1 June 2021 which requires all the authorized institutions (AI) to:

1. strongly encourage staff performing "client-facing roles or critical support functions" to get vaccinated;
2. identify and draw up a list of designated staff (Designated Staff1) who are expected to be inoculated, and produce to the HKMA by 14 June 2021 a breakdown by department or function of such Designated Staff;
3. request Designated Staff to get vaccinated as soon as possible; and
4. make arrangements for those who have not yet been vaccinated or are unfit for vaccination to undergo effective testing for COVID-19 every two weeks, with the first test to be completed by 30 June 2021.

While circulars from the HKMA are not mandatory in nature, non-compliance will reflect adversely on an AI and may be taken into account in determining whether an institution is fit to be an AI.

There are a number of issues an AI will need to consider in implementing the HKMA circular, including:

- Does an employee have the right to challenge being identified as a Designated Staff? In our view, no. The circular is directed at AIs and it is for the AI to discharge their obligations under the circular.
- Does the AI need to identify the particular employee or the position of the Designated Staff? In our view, the circular does not require the AI to identify the Designated Staff by name. According to some news reports, this is confirmed by the HKMA.
- Can the AI direct Designated Staff to be vaccinated or tested? Given the HKMA requirements under the circular, in our view, it would be a lawful and reasonable direction for an AI to direct an employee who is a Designated Staff to be vaccinated or submit to testing for COVID-19. Any failure by the employee to comply with this direction can give rise to potential disciplinary action by the employer.
- Personal Data Privacy: An AI will be collecting personal data of the Designated Staff in relation to vaccination and/or testing records, and so will need to ensure that it complies with the Personal Data (Privacy) Ordinance (Cap.486). Among other things, the AI should ensure it has an appropriate personal information collection statement.

Although the HKMA circular focusses on client-facing roles or critical support functions, the stated objective of the circular is to promote a high vaccination rate as part of the efforts towards the resumption of normal economic activities as well as facilitating business continuity planning. As such, in implementing the circular an AI should also consider employees other than Designated Staff and the message in the opening paragraph of the circular wherein the HKMA urges all AIs "to introduce additional effective measures to encourage all bank staff to get vaccinated".

SFC and IA - The SFC and IA issued circulars on 1 June 2021 to strongly encourage COVID-19 vaccination of staff.

Licensed corporations have been urged by the SFC to review their business continuity plans, identify functions which are critical to their business operations and client interest, and encourage staff performing such functions to get vaccinated; and to consider suitable arrangements for critical, non-vaccinated staff to undergo periodic testing.

In a similar vein, authorized insurers and responsible officers are encouraged by the IA to arrange for all staff and intermediaries who come into regular contact with customers, or who deliver critical functions, to be inoculated, while those who have not yet been vaccinated or are unfit for vaccination due to medication conditions should undergo periodic testing.

Who is Next?

Employers in other industries should take note of the circulars and what regulators are requesting of regulated entities in the financial and insurance industries in respect of COVID-19 vaccination and testing for those staff who are unvaccinated.

Hong Kong Employment Law Ruling: Suspension of Duties Does Not Mean Suspension from Employment

In Lengler Werner v Hong Kong Express Airways Ltd [2021] HKCFI 1333, the Court of First Instance (CFI) confirmed that a suspension of duties during employment was not a suspension from employment under Section 11 of the Employment Ordinance (EO), which permits an employer in certain circumstances to suspend an employee from employment without notice or pay in lieu. In addition, the Court also held that just because the employee pilot was suspended from flying duties and did not receive overtime/ productivity bonus associated with flying duties, it did not mean that the employer had constructively dismissed the employee.

Background

The Respondent employee was employed by the Appellant employer as a pilot. He had a disputes with two other pilots and was suspended from flying duties pending the outcome of an internal investigation. After being told that warning letters would be issued to him, the Respondent resigned alleging that he was being constructively dismissed by the Respondent .

The employee lodged a claim against his employer at the Labour Tribunal seeking arrears of wages, wages in lieu of notice and overtime pay. The Labour Tribunal allowed the employee's claim, finding that he was entitled to rely on Section 11(2) of the EO to terminate the contract of employment without notice or payment in lieu; and that he had been constructively dismissed. The employer appealed to the CFI.

Issues

The key issues on appeal were:

1. Whether the Labour Tribunal erred in law by considering and applying Section 11 of the EO to the suspension of the employee's duties and by erroneously concluding that the employee was entitled to terminate his employment without notice under Section 11(2); and

2. Whether the Labour Tribunal had erred in law in deciding that the employer had repudiated the employment contract and constructively dismissed the employee.

Discussion and Decision

Issue (1): Suspension from Employment without Notice or Payment in Lieu

There are limited circumstances under which an employer may suspend an employee's employment under Section 11(1) of the EO without notice or payment in lieu. They are: (a) as a disciplinary measure for any reason for which the employer could have terminated the contract of employment under Section 9 of the EO by way of summary dismissal; (b) pending a decision by the employer as to whether or not it will exercise the right to terminate the contract of employment under Section 9; or (c) pending the outcome of criminal proceedings in relation to the employee's employment.

Under Section 11(2), an employee who is suspended under Section 11(1) may at any time during the period of suspension terminate the contract of employment without notice or payment in lieu.

In considering whether Section 11(1) was applicable to this case, the judge drew a distinction between a partial suspension of some duties of the employee (in this case, the pilot's flying duties) and a "suspension from employment". To qualify for a "suspension from employment", the employee would not be required to do any work and the employer would not be required to pay the employee. In other words, the employee would be "suspended from his functions as an employed person". In the present case, it was decided that the pilot employee was not suspended from employment, but only partially suspended of his flying duties.

In view of the above, the judge decided that Section 11 did not apply in the present case and the employee was not entitled to rely upon Section 11(2) to terminate his employment without notice or payment in lieu.

Issue (2): Constructive Dismissal

When an employer does a repudiatory act, causing an employee to reasonably believe that it is impossible to continue to work for the employer, the employer's act may constitute 'constructive dismissal'.

In the Decision, the court considered that the employee's employment contract expressly provided that he "may be suspended from part of his duties" pending investigation or disciplinary action. The evidence before the CFI did not suggest that the employer had exercised its right to suspend the employee from his flying duties pending the investigation arbitrarily, capriciously or inequitably. Reduction in employee's income cannot be considered in isolation when determining whether there has been a repudiatory breach on the part of the employer. It was held that the drop in income had to be considered in conjunction with the issue of whether the employer was entitled to suspend part of the employee's duties.

Having regard to both the EO and the terms of employment, the judge took the view that as the employer was entitled to suspend the employee from part of his duties (i.e. flying duties), there was no repudiatory breach on its part. The claim for constructive dismissal could therefore not be supported.

Lesson for Employers

When suspending an employee, employers should be clear as to whether they are suspending the employee from their duties or from employment under Section 11(1) of the EO.

A suspension under Section 11(1) is only available in limited circumstances – and for a limited period of up to 14 days – if the suspension is not pending the outcome of criminal proceedings.

HONG KONG

While one advantage of a suspension under Section 11(1) is that the employer will not be required to pay wages or provide benefits under the contract of employment, a downside is that an employee can terminate the contract of employment at any time during the period of suspension without notice or payment in lieu under Section 11(2). As such, most employers will perhaps opt to suspend an employee from their duties, even when they may have grounds to suspend under Section 11(1).

However, a suspension from duties will need to be permissible under the contract of employment. To avoid dispute, employers should ensure that they expressly set out the right in the contract of employment to suspend the employee from their duties.

Breastfeeding Discrimination and Harassment Law in Hong Kong Commences 19 June 2021

The protection against unlawful breastfeeding discrimination and harassment under the Sex Discrimination Ordinance (SDO) in Hong Kong commenced on 19 June 2021.

The new breastfeeding discrimination and harassment law applies to a woman who is engaging in the act of breastfeeding a child or expressing breast milk, or a woman who feeds a child with her breastmilk even if the child may not be her biological child. The law gives protection to breastfeeding women in the context of employment; education; provision of goods, facilities or services; disposal or management of premises and clubs; and government activities.

There are two forms of unlawful breastfeeding discrimination under the SDO: direct and indirect. In the employment context:

- Direct discrimination means treating a breastfeeding employee less favourably than a non-breastfeeding employee in the same or not materially different circumstances on the ground that she is breastfeeding;
- Indirect discrimination arises when a condition or requirement is applied to employees equally but a smaller proportion of breastfeeding staff can comply compared to non-breastfeeding staff. The breastfeeding employees suffer a detriment as a result of the unjustifiable condition or requirement.

The SDO affords protection against breastfeeding harassment to employees as well as other workplace participants in a common workplace. These include contract workers, commission agents, firm partners, interns or volunteers. Breastfeeding harassment occurs when a person:

- Engages in an unwelcome conduct, which a reasonable person, having regard to all the circumstances, would anticipate that the breastfeeding woman would be offended, humiliated or intimidated by that conduct; or
- Alone, or with others, engages in a conduct which creates a hostile or intimidating environment for the breastfeeding woman.

For details of the new breastfeeding protection law, please see our recent Legal Updates: Changes to Hong Kong Discrimination Law and the Practical Considerations for Supporting Breastfeeding Employees in Hong Kong and our Guide to Discrimination Law in Hong Kong.

The Equal Opportunities Commission has also published the following guidance and leaflets to assist the public in understanding the new breastfeeding protection law:

Extending employees' compensation protection to employees commuting to or from work under "extreme conditions"

The Employee's Compensation (Amendment) Ordinance came into effect on 2 July 2021.

The Employee's Compensation Ordinance (Cap.282), as it stands prior to the amendments in July 2021, compensates an employee for injury or death as a result of accidents under Tropical Cyclone Warning Signal No.8 or when the Red or Black Rainstorm Warning Signal is in force. The July 2021 amendment extends compensation to injury or death as a result of accidents under "extreme conditions". According to the ordinance, the Chief Secretary for Administration may make an "extreme conditions announcement" which states the existence of extreme conditions that arise from a super typhoon or other natural disaster of a substantial scale during the period specified in the announcement. The extended compensation applies if the employee:

1. travels from his place of residence to his place of work by a direct route within a period of four hours before the time of commencement of his working hours for that day; or
2. travels from his place of work to his place of residence within a period of four hours after the time of cessation of his working hours for that day.

More Statutory Holidays in Hong Kong from 2022

On 7 July 2021, the Legislative Council of Hong Kong passed the Employment (Amendment) Bill 2021 which increases the number of statutory holidays under the Employment Ordinance (the "EO") by five days progressively from 2022 to 2030. The implementation of new statutory holidays will take the following order:

1. The Birthday of Buddha, being the eighth day of the fourth lunar month (starting from 1 January 2022);
2. The first weekday after Christmas Day (starting from 1 January 2024);
3. Easter Monday (starting from 1 January 2026);
4. Good Friday (starting from 1 January 2028); and
5. The day following Good Friday (starting from 1 January 2030).

What Should Employers Do?

An employee who has been employed under a continuous contract for not less than three months by the employer is entitled to statutory holiday pay. The EO prescribes a rate of statutory holiday pay which is generally the average wage earned in the 12 months immediately before the statutory holiday. Employers should review their calculations and update their systems to ensure that they pay not less than the prescribed statutory holiday pay in respect of the additional statutory holidays.

If an employee is required to work on a statutory holiday, then the employer must ensure that it complies with obligations under the EO to give notice of and grant an alternative holiday or substituted holiday within the prescribed timeframes. If the statutory holiday falls on a statutory rest day, an employer must grant a holiday on the next day that is not a statutory, alternative or substituted holiday or statutory rest day. Employers should review its arrangements taking into account the additional statutory holidays to ensure that they comply with the EO.

Employers should also review and update their contracts of employment and relevant holiday policies to reflect the increase in statutory holidays, if necessary.

Hong Kong Court Strikes Out Employment Claim for "Window Dressing"

In Xinhua News Media Ltd & Another v Chan Chun Wo & Another [2021] HKDC 903, the District Court (Court) struck out the employers' claim against former employees for overpaid wages and expenses on the ground that they should have been initiated in the Labour Tribunal. The Court reiterated that the focus is on the substance of the claim, free of "window-dressing", when considering whether it falls within the Labour Tribunal's exclusive jurisdiction.

Background

The Defendants were former directors of the 2nd Plaintiff and employees of the 1st Plaintiff. Before the Court proceedings, the employees had brought claims in the Labour Tribunal against the employer for arrears of wages and other payments.

The employers commenced the Court proceedings claiming overpaid salaries and medical expenses arising from misappropriation of the employers' assets and/or breach of fiduciary duties.

The employees applied to either strike out the claim or permanently stay the proceedings, or for a declaration that the Court had no jurisdiction. The employers argued that the Court had jurisdiction because their claim was not based on breach of the employment contract but breach of fiduciary duties and tort.

The Court's Decision

The Court struck out the employers' claim, which it held fell within the Labour Tribunal's exclusive jurisdiction. The Court also held that the claim was an abuse of process.

The Court reiterated that the focus is on the substance, not labels, of the claim. Even where the claim is for breach of fiduciary duty which arose out of an employment contract, it falls within the Labour Tribunal's jurisdiction. It might be different if the claim for breach of fiduciary duty was for an employee's breach of confidence by exploiting their position.

The Court held that, ignoring any "window-dressing", the employers' claims were in substance simply for alleged overpayments of wages and reimbursements. Wages and reimbursement were express terms in the employees' employment contracts and the "Employment Handbook" incorporated into those contracts. Therefore, the claim fell within the Labour Tribunal's exclusive jurisdiction.

Further, from a practical perspective, the claim was simply a factual dispute of whether the employees had followed the required procedure such that the payments they had obtained were authorised. The Court considered it immaterial whether the legal basis was breach of fiduciary duty, bad faith, gross misconduct or honest mistake. Therefore, the claim would be suitable to be dealt with by the Labour Tribunal. This raised suspicions as to whether the employers' additional allegations were "window-dressing" as an excuse to initiate the action in the District Court in order to frustrate the employees' Labour Tribunal proceedings.

The Court found that regardless of the suspicion, it was an abuse of process for the employers to start their claim in the Court under the circumstances.

Therefore, the Court claim was struck out.

Takeaway for Employers

When starting legal proceedings against employees, employers should pay attention to the substance of their claim. If the claim is in substance for breach of the employment contract or a fiduciary duty arising out of it, then it should be started in the Labour Tribunal. Initiating the action in a court or another tribunal may result in the claim being struck out.

Equals Opportunities Commission ("EOC") releases updated guide for SMES to prevent sexual harassment

In the past three years, over 75% of sexual harassment complaints received by the EOC were employment related. Employers may be held vicariously liable under the Sex Discrimination Ordinance for any unlawful sexual harassment committed by their employees in the course of employment, even if the employer had no knowledge of it. A defence may be available if the employer proves it has taken reasonably practicable steps to prevent sexual harassment. The guide provides insight as to what reasonably practicable steps are.

In short, these steps are broadly categorized into preventive and remedial measures. In terms of preventive measures, an employer should develop a clear anti-sexual harassment policy, establish proper complaint channels and provide regular training to inform employees what constitutes sexual harassment. In terms of remedial measures, the employer should handle complaints properly, e.g. by conducting an investigation, and make temporary arrangements to protect the alleged victim and prevent further incidents. Appropriate disciplinary measures should follow if applicable and the company's anti-harassment policy should be reviewed regularly.

The guide provides further details as to how to implement the above steps

Draft model standing orders issued for public comments under the IR Code

The Industrial Employment (Standing Orders) Act, 1946 (SO Act) requires employers to formulate standing orders, which are essentially service rules pertaining to an establishment. In most states, the SO Act applies to 'industrial establishments' which employ / had employed 100 or more workmen on any day in the last 12 months. However, in a few states such as, Karnataka and Maharashtra, this threshold has been reduced 50 or more workmen. The obligation on employers (whose establishments are covered) is to draft standing orders and have them certified by the labour authorities.

State governments (which are the appropriate governments in case of private companies) have issued model standing orders (MSO), and employers are required to ensure that their draft standing orders are aligned with the MSO to the extent feasible. In most states, the MSO is deemed to be adopted until the certified standing orders are obtained.

The IR Code will increase the threshold for the applicability of provisions relating to standing orders. Under that Code, corresponding provisions will apply to industrial establishments (which includes commercial establishments) having 300 or more workers. Unlike the SO Act, under the IR Code, only the central government has the authority to issue MSO. Accordingly, in exercise of such authority, the central government has released draft sector-specific draft MSOs for (1) manufacturing sector, and (2) service sector.

The draft MSOs for both sectors provides include provisions on classification of workers, publication of working conditions, payment of wages, maintenance of service records, termination of employment, disciplinary action for misconduct, grievance redressal and complaints, etc.

The central government had provided 30 days' time (i.e., from 31 December 2020) to the public/stakeholder to provide their comments on the draft MSOs.

Change in the expected implementation date of the labour codes, and release of draft state rules under the labour codes

The Indian government is in the process of consolidating 29 existing central labour laws into 4 labour codes. The prime objective of the consolidation has been to facilitate the ease of doing business, the use of technology, and to eliminate multiplicity and inconsistency of definitions across laws.

The Code on Wages, 2019 (Wage Code) was passed by the Parliament and approved by the President on 8 August 2019. The remaining three codes, viz. Industrial Relations Code, 2020 (IR Code), Code on Social Security, 2020 (SS Code) and Occupational Health, Safety and Working Conditions Code, 2020 (OSH Code) were passed by the Parliament and were approved by the President on 28 September 2020. However, all four codes are yet to come into effect on a date to be notified by the central government. In accordance with the labour ministry's announcement last year, the codes were proposed to come into effect from 1 April 2021. However, since many state governments are yet to publish their respective rules under the four codes, the implementation date has been delayed. There is no clarity on the specific date for implementation - that said, they are expected to come into effect later in 2021.

Some states have released their draft state rules under some or all of the 4 labour codes.

a. Draft State Rules for Wage Code:

The state governments of Jammu & Kashmir, Bihar, Uttar Pradesh, Karnataka and Odisha have released the draft state rules under the Wage Code, for

The revised guidelines are applicable to offices and other workplaces with a view to prevent the spread of infection due to employees working together in relatively close settings and shared workspaces. The guidelines provide for:

- general preventive measures like social distancing, hand hygiene, use of face masks, thermal scanning at the entrance, disinfection, avoidance of physical gathering etc.,
- specific measures like advising employees at higher risk i.e. older employees, pregnant employees, and employees who have underlying medical conditions, meetings as far as possible should be done through video conferencing, etc.
- responsive measures for occurrence of symptomatic cases at the workplace - that is it requires employers to immediately isolate the symptomatic person and provide her/him with face covers, call the nearest health authorities, etc.

Increase in the annual leave carry forward limit under the Karnataka Shops and Commercial Establishments Act, 1961 (Karnataka S&E Act)

The Karnataka S&E Act governs the working conditions of employees working in commercial establishments in the state of Karnataka.

Prior to the amendment, the Karnataka S&E Act provided for carry forward of up to 30 days' unused annual leave to the succeeding year. However, by an amendment on 19 February 2021, the Karnataka state government has increased this limit to 45 days. Given this, employees in shops and commercial establishments in Karnataka will be able to carry forward up to 45 days of unused annual leave.

The term 'year' under the Karnataka S&E Act is defined as a year commencing on 1 January. Given this, the impact of the amendment would become relevant when employees carry forward annual leaves from 2021 to 2022. However, organizations for which the leave calendar operates on a financial year (April to March) basis would need to be mindful that the increased threshold applies from February 2021.

Guidelines for Testing, Tracking and Treating of Coronavirus

As part of its continued response to containing the coronavirus pandemic (COVID-19), the Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) has issued new guidelines for testing, tracking and treating the virus (TTT Guidelines). These guidelines, which are applicable till the end of April 2021, permit all activities outside (micro) containment zones.

Standard Operation Procedures (SOPs) have been issued by various ministries in relation to reopening of schools, higher educational institutions, air travel metro rails, shopping malls, hotels, restaurants and hospitality services, religious places, yoga and training institutes, gymnasiums, cinema halls, assemblies, congregations, etc. All such activities are permitted outside containment zones under the TTT Guidelines, subject to compliance with the relevant SOPs issued by the central government and/or relevant state or union territory.

In the earlier guidelines (in recent months), the MHA had directed state governments to not impose any lockdown outside containment zones at the state, district, or city levels (without consulting the central government). However, in light of latest surge in positive cases, the TTT guidelines allow state governments to impose local restrictions at district/sub-district/ and city/ward level, with a view to contain the spread of COVID-19. District authorities can, in vulnerable and high incidence areas, demarcate containment zones at a micro level in their jurisdictions (based on parameters prescribed by MoHFW). Micro-containment zones would, for example be, an apartment building where a positive case is identified. Movement of people in and out of the (micro) containment zones is restricted, except for medical emergencies and essential services.

Further, State Governments and Union Territory Administrations are required to strictly enforce/ensure the following:

- Maximum testing, demarcation of containment zones, and quick isolation and treatment
- Strict perimeter control, and surveillance in the containment zones - only essential services should be allowed in the containment zone.
- COVID appropriate behaviour i.e. preventive measures such as, maintaining social distancing, wearing face masks, hand hygiene, etc. by citizens.
- Strict adherence of the SOP prescribed by various ministries for each activity
- Adequate vaccination measures for all the priority groups.

Further, the TTT Guidelines require State governments and Union Territories to strictly enforce the 'National Directives for COVID-19 Management'. The National Directives mandate the following for workplaces -

- Work-from-home, to the extent possible;
- Compulsory usage of face covers (masks) at the workplace;
- Ensuring thermal scanning at all entry exit points of the workplace;
- Having staggered work / business hours, lunch breaks, and shifts;
- Providing hand wash and sanitizers;
- Frequently sanitizing the workplace, all common facilities and points which come into human contact (such as door handles) including between shifts.
- Ensuring adequate social distancing at all times.

Since all activities are permitted outside containment zones under the TTT guidelines, the opening of private offices with full staff capacity would be allowed under those guidelines. However, given the spike of positive cases in recent weeks, a few state governments such as, Maharashtra and Delhi have ordered additional preventive measures till 30 April 2021.

Accordingly, in Maharashtra, private offices are required to remain closed till 30 April 2021 (except few essential services such as private banks, telecom service providers, insurance companies, pharmaceutical companies etc). In Delhi, a night curfew has been imposed (between 10 pm to 5 am). However,

Ministry of Labour and Employment is targeting October 2021 for implementing the labour codes

The four labour codes i.e. Code on Wages, 2019 (Wage Code), Industrial Relations Code, 2020 (IR Code), Code on Social Security, 2020 (SS Code) and Occupational Health, Safety and Working Conditions Code, 2020 (OSH Code) were passed by the Parliament and were granted Presidential assent in September 2020 - however, they are yet to come into effect on a date to be notified by the central government. The codes were initially expected to come into effect on 1 April 2021. However, as many state governments are still in the process of drafting and publishing their respective state rules under the four codes, and since the governments' focus shifted towards containing the pandemic, the implementation date of the codes has been delayed. At present, there is no clarity on the specific date for implementation - that said, based on recent news reports, the Ministry of Labour and Employment is now targeting October 2021 for implementing the codes.

Meanwhile, a few state governments and the central government have released rules under some or all of the 4 labour codes. Public and stakeholder comments on the above draft rules can be submitted to the state governments and central government that has released the respective rules. The draft rules, once published, will subsume the respective central and state rules under the subsumed laws. Draft state rules under the other state governments are expected to be issued in the coming months.

COVID-19 vaccination at workplace, vaccination guidelines for pregnant and lactating women and administering second dose to international travellers

The Ministry of Health and Family Welfare (MoHFW) vide its notification dated 6 April 2021 permitted vaccination to be organised through workplaces both public and private from 11 April 2021. However, MoHFW had limited the provision of vaccination to only those employees that were above the age of 45. No outsiders including eligible family member were permitted to participate in the vaccination drive organised at workplaces. This notification was subsequently modified twice - first, on 19 May 2021 to permit vaccination at the workplace for all employees above 18, and second, on 21 May 2021 to permit vaccination all eligible family members and dependents (as defined by the employer) of the employees to be vaccinated at the workplace.

In order to implement this, employers must set up a workplace COVID-19 vaccination centre (Workplace CVC) and register it on the government portal COWIN. Further, each Workplace CVC must be tied up with a private hospital which will procure vaccines and administer it at the Workplace CVC.

Further, it is relevant to note that at first, the MoHFW had not permitted pregnant lactating women to receive the COVID-19 vaccine. Subsequently, the National Technical Advisory Group on Immunization (NTAGI), a technical committee on immunization under the MoHFW has recommended that all pregnant women have to be first informed of the risks and benefits associated with the vaccine and based on such information, a pregnant woman may be offered the vaccine at the nearest centre. However, the NTAGI has clarified that all lactating women are eligible to receive the COVID-19 vaccines any time after delivery.

In addition to the above, the MoHFW has given special dispensation to (i) Students who have to undertake foreign travel for the purposes of education; (ii) Persons who have to take up jobs in foreign countries and (iii) Athletes, Sportspersons and accompanying staff of Indian contingent attending International Olympic Games to be held in Tokyo, wherein these special category of individuals will be permitted to obtain their second dose of Covishield vaccine earlier i.e. before completion of the 84 day interval period in order to enable them to travel internationally for the purposes identified above. This dispensation has been extended till 31 August 2021 only.

Guidelines for Testing, Tracking and Treating of Coronavirus

As part of its continued response to containing the coronavirus pandemic (COVID-19), the Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) has issued new containment framework (Framework). This Framework is applicable till the end of June 2021 and direct states and union territories to implement the following directions:

- Individual obligations of wearing masks, maintaining 6 feet of distance, sanitizing hands frequently and not attending mass gatherings will continue;
- Imposition of night curfew to restrict movement of individuals except for essential activities. The duration of the night curfew hours will be determined by local authorities;
- Complete prohibition of social/ political/ sports/ entertainment/ academic/ cultural/ religious/ festival-related and other gatherings and congregations, at all times;
- Essential services and activities such as healthcare, police, fire, banks, electricity, water, sanitation including all incidental and related activities must continue;
- No restriction on inter-state and intra-state movement including transportation of essential goods;
- Public transport to operate at maximum 50% capacity;
- All offices (including private offices) can function at a maximum staff strength of 50%;
- Districts to continue the strategy of 'test-track-treat-vaccinate' and implementation of COVID-19 appropriate behaviour;
- 100% vaccination for all eligible groups.

Further, the Framework require State governments and Union Territories to strictly enforce the 'National Directives for COVID-19 Management'. The National Directives mandate the following for workplaces -

- Work-from-home, to the extent possible;
- Compulsory usage of face covers (masks) at the workplace;
- Ensuring thermal scanning at all entry exit points of the workplace;
- Having staggered work / business hours, lunch breaks, and shifts;
- Providing hand wash and sanitizers;
- Frequently sanitizing the workplace, all common facilities and points which come into human contact (such as door handles) including between shifts.
- Ensuring adequate social distancing at all times.

Given the spike in COVID-19 cases during the second wave, most states in India were under a strict lockdown till the end of May. Accordingly, private offices remained closed and movement within states were restricted. However, since the beginning of June 2021, some states have started easing in their lockdown restrictions depending on the number of active cases in their respective states.

Each state has adopted its own specific approach in reopening activities within the state. For example, in Maharashtra each municipal area is treated as a separate administrative unit. The administrative units are categorised into levels based on the positivity rate and availability of oxygen beds. The higher the level number, the more restrictions will be placed. In level 1 and 2 administrative units all private office can function at 100% capacity. Level 3 can function till 4 pm at 50% capacity. Level 4 and 5 only certain exempted categories of private office can function at 25% and 15% capacity respectively.

Similarly, in Karnataka, districts are categorised into three categories based on positivity rate- In Category 1 districts i.e. with positivity rate less than 5%, private offices can function with a maximum strength of 50% subject to following COVID-19 appropriate behaviour. This is not permitted in the other two categories.

Implementation of Section 142 of the Code on Social Security, 2020 and its interpretation by various government agencies

The central government on 30 April 2021 notified Section 142 of the Code on Social Security, 2020 (SS Code) with effect from 3 May 2021. Section 142 mandates individuals receiving benefits under the SS Code to establish their identity through Aadhaar. Pursuant to this, government agencies such as the Employee' State Insurance Corporation (ESIC) and Employees' Provident Fund Organization (EPFO) have issued circulars on the implementation of Section 142 within their agencies.

a. Circular issued by ESIC:

The ESIC issued a circular dated 20 May 2021 clarifying that since provisions relating to Employees' State Insurance Scheme under the SS Code are yet to be made effective, requirement of Aadhaar for availing benefits under the provisions of the existing Employees' State Insurance Act, 1948 (ESI Act) is not mandatory.

b. Circulars issued by EPFO:

The EPFO issued a circular dated 1 June 2021 mandating requirement of Aadhaar to make contributions under the Employees' Provident Funds and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1952 (EPF Act) with immediate effect. This circular was met with much criticism for coming into effect immediately and not providing sufficient time for employers to make necessary adjustments. This led to employer organisations filing representations before the EPFO and even filing writ petition before the Delhi High Court requesting to defer the implementation date in order to enable employees to obtain Aadhaar number. Subsequently, the EPFO issued another circular dated 15 June 2021 partially modifying the first circular by deferring the date of implementation to 1 September 2021.

The reason being that nursing mothers are highly vulnerable to COVID-19 and there is a need to protect them and their infants from the second wave of COVID-19 in India. This advisory is set against the backdrop of Section 5(5) of the Maternity Benefits Act, 1961 (MB Act) which enables nursing mothers to work from home even after the period of maternity leave, on such conditions agreed between the employer and nursing mother, if the nature of work is such that it can be performed from home. The Ministry further requests the state governments to create awareness within their states and encourage employers to implement the provisions of Section 5(5) of the MB Act.

New Regulation Looks to Ease Hiring Process for Foreign Workers

The Indonesian Government has issued various implementing regulations for the recently enacted Job Creation Law. Among these new implementing regulations is Government Regulation No. 34 Year 2021 dated February 2, 2021 regarding the Utilization of Foreign Workers ("GR No. 34"). GR No. 34 was made available to the public on February 21, 2021 and is expected to come into force on April 1, 2021.

GR No. 34 introduces a significant change to the expatriate work permit application process, removing the Notification (Notifikasi) application from the process. Previously, employers were required to obtain a Foreign Worker Utilization Plan (Rencana Penggunaan Tenaga Kerja Asing or "RPTKA") and a Notification approved and issued by the Minister of Manpower ("MOM") prior to employing foreign workers. GR No. 34 removes the Notification requirement and adds one new step, the RPTKA appropriateness assessment ("RPTKA Assessment"). During the RPTKA Assessment, the MOM will determine within two business days whether the submitted information and documents are correct and complete.

The stated aim of GR No. 34 is to simplify the process for hiring expatriate workers in Indonesia and in turn attract more investment into the country.

This new regulation revokes and replaces MOM Regulation No. 10 of 2018 regarding Procedures for the Employment of Foreign Workers (July 11, 2018) ("MOM Reg. 10/2018").

Arachchige v Raiser New Zealand Limited and Uber B.V. [2020] NZEmpC 230.

The Employment Court has issued another decision relating to the status of contractors

Mr Arachchige was an Uber driver in Auckland and applied to the Employment Court for a declaration that he was an employee of Raiser New Zealand Limited and/or Uber B.V. (collectively, Uber), so that he could raise a personal grievance for unjustifiable dismissal.

Mr Arachchige's main argument that his status was one of employee was the lack of control that he had over building a customer base and over determining what fare to charge. Without the ability for the driver to establish a relationship with passengers, he argued there was an inability to attract future work.

Uber argued that it was a technology business with its value being in the lead generation software application it provides to connect people who need a transport service, with people that provide transport services. Uber's position was that it had a Service Agreement with Mr Arachchige and he was not an employee.

The Employment Court held that Mr Arachchige's work was not directed or controlled by Uber beyond some matters that might be expected given he was operating using the Uber 'brand' and Uber did not direct Mr Arachchige in connection with the provision of the transport services. Mr Arachchige also determined whether and for how long he undertook services, provided all the necessary equipment and tools to undertake the work, and was responsible for his tax obligations. Given all these factors the Employment Court held that Mr Arachchige was not employed by Uber.

The Employment Court at the outset of the decision noted its inquiry was intensively fact specific and only addressed Mr Arachchige's situation. The Court distinguished the facts of this case from two other recent decisions of the Employment Court, where the drivers had to work as directed and had little authority over the way in which they carried out their business activities.

Gate Gourmet New Zealand Ltd v Sandhu [2020] NZEmpC 237

This was the first Employment Court decision on COVID-19 issues, with the majority of the Full Court finding that the Minimum Wage Act did not require an employer to pay employees the minimum wage in circumstances where those employees did not perform work during New Zealand's Level 4 Lockdown in early 2020. This case concerned whether Gate Gourmet had breached the Minimum Wage Act 1983 (MWA) during New Zealand's Level 4 lockdown by paying employees who had not been rostered to work, at the rate of 80% of their normal pay (being 80% of the minimum wage).

On appeal, the majority of the Court found that the purpose of the MWA is to ensure that employees receive a base wage for their work to enable them to meet living expenses for themselves and their family, but that the MWA does not provide for a guaranteed minimum income. Instead, section 6 of the MWA provides for a minimum payment in exchange for work performed by an employee. The Court stated that accepting the employees' expansive interpretation of what constituted work (namely, the employees being ready, willing and able to work) "would undermine the core concept of section 6", which provides the exchange of payment for work.

While the Court acknowledged that Parliament has made it clear that the preservation of minimum employment rights is of the utmost importance, it saw no persuasive basis for departing from the well-established approach to assessing work for the purposes of section 6 of the MWA.

Accordingly, the Court concluded that “when the defendants stayed home, they were not working for the purposes of the MWA, the MWA was not engaged, and no statutory minimum wage entitlements arose”.

A Labour Inspector of the Ministry of Business, Innovation and Employment v Tourism Holdings Limited* [2021] NZCA 1.

In this case, the issue was, as a question of law, whether productivity or incentive-based payments were a regular part of an employee’s pay when calculating ordinary weekly pay under the Holidays Act 2003 (Act). Tourism Holdings Ltd employed “driver guides” for their tours. Among other tasks, these guides sold tourist experiences to their clients whilst on tour. The guides earned commission for each tourist experience they sold. The commission was paid in a lump sum after the end of that tour.

Commission is always included in the employee’s average weekly earnings, however the Labour Inspectors and THL disputed whether the guide’s commission should be included in the employee’s ordinary weekly pay.

Section 8(1) of the Act provides that ordinary weekly pay means the amount of pay an employee receives under his or her employment agreement for an ordinary working week. Section 8(1)(b)(i) of the Act stipulates that productivity or incentive-based payments in ordinary weekly pay “if those payments are a regular part of the employee’s pay”.

In allowing the appeal, the Court held that the purpose of the alternative approach found in section 8(2) is to provide for the calculation of “ordinary weekly pay” where the definition found in section 8(1) cannot be applied. One of those circumstances was, as in the case being considered, where there is no ordinary working week.

In relation to the qualifying word “regular” in section 8(1)(c)(i), the Court considered dictionary meanings for the word regular applied to commission as earned by the driver guides. The Court held that payments are “a regular part of the employee’s pay” if they are made:

- substantively regularly, being made systematically and according to rules; or
- temporally regularly, being made uniformly in time and manner.

If productivity or incentive-based payments are a regular part of an employee’s pay, those payments must be included when calculating ordinary weekly pay under section 8(2) of the Act. This was irrespective of whether the payments were part of pay for an ordinary working week (in the driver guide scenario the payments did not as there was no ordinary working week given the varying length of the tours).

While the commission payments were not part of the payment of daily rate compensation for each week, the Court held that it did form part of pay in the week after the tour when it was paid, and commission was paid regularly. This meant that the driver guide’s commission payments were regular payments and therefore not to be deducted as part of factor b in the section 8(2) formula.

2003, which has been difficult to interpret and apply. Many workplaces in New Zealand have found that payroll systems do not calculate all leave entitlements correctly, leaving employers in breach of the Holidays Act's requirements.

The Taskforce made 22 recommendations, all of which were jointly agreed to by union and business representatives. The key recommendations include:

- Retaining the current approach of providing and calculating annual holidays in "weeks" or portions of weeks, and retaining the current approach of providing and calculating FBAPS<sup>1</sup> leave in days;
- Re-working the methodologies for annual holidays and FBAPS leave, providing for a total of four methodologies;
- Defining "gross earnings" as including "all cash payments received, except direct reimbursements for costs incurred;
- On the sale and transfer of a business, employees would have a choice about whether to transfer all of their leave entitlements to the new employer or have them paid out and reset;
- Providing for "prescriptive processes" to determine how much leave needs to be taken for an employee to have a period of time away from work (ie where it is not clear what a "week" is for the employee) and to determine when a particular day is an "otherwise working day" for FBAPS purposes (eg if an employee has worked 50% or more of the corresponding days in the previous four or 13 weeks); and
- Amending closedown provisions to provide greater certainty for employees, including the removal of the requirement that holidays are paid out at 8% and that the employee's anniversary date should be reset (although it would still be possible for anniversary dates to be reset by agreement).

Fair Pay Agreements

On 7 May 2021, the Government announced the implementation of its pre-election commitment to Fair Pay Agreements ("FPA"). An FPA will set minimum standards for employees and employers in a particular occupation or industry, in New Zealand. The FPA bargaining process can only be initiated by unions if they have a support threshold of 10%, or 1000 workers within the occupation or industry, or if they meet a public interest test in an industry or occupation where employment issues exist, such as low pay or limited bargaining power.

Once an FPA is ratified, employees or employers cannot opt out of an FPA. If agreement is not reached, parties return to the bargaining process. If a second vote fails, the FPA will be under the jurisdiction of the Employment Relations Authority to determine.

FPA's will cover all workers within an industry or occupation whether they are a member of a union or not. Unions will represent employees. Employees who are not union members will have no freedom of association or choice as to who represents them.

We expect a draft bill to be released later this year.

Barry v C I Builders Limited [2021] NZEmpC 82.

The Employment Court recently held that an individual engaged as a builder for a building company had been incorrectly classified as a contractor, and determined the real nature of the relationship to be one of employment.

In determining the real nature of the relationship, the Employment Court again emphasised the need to determine such issues on the specific circumstances. While it was clear from the outset that the plaintiff had been engaged as an independent contractor, the Court held that the true nature of the relationship between the parties was effectively an employment relationship. In reaching this decision, the Court took the following factors (amongst others) into account:

- The defendant company had the right to exercise detailed control over the way work was performed by the plaintiff. The plaintiff moved between sites and worked on particular jobs as directed by the defendant, and the plaintiff's working records showed a relatively consistent pattern of work hours and did not reflect any real sense of flexibility that could be exercised by the plaintiff;
- The plaintiff was integrated into the defendant's organisation, as the plaintiff drove a company vehicle on occasion, reported to and was assigned tasks by the defendant's owner, and there was nothing to externally differentiate him from any of the other workers on site;
- There was no evidence to suggest that the plaintiff could subcontract or delegate his work, and the Court inferred that other workers would have to cover for the plaintiff if he was not at work;
- Although the plaintiff had his own tool belt with small tools in it, all other tools which he used to undertake his work were provided by the defendant; and
- The plaintiff was paid based on hours worked, any goodwill generated by the plaintiff's skill, labour or work ethic would accrue to the defendant, rather than the plaintiff.

The Court concluded that the plaintiff was effectively providing personal service to the defendant and was not, in reality, operating a business on his own account. Accordingly, the real nature of the relationship between the parties was one of employment.

FMZ v TZB [2021] NZSC 102

The Supreme Court has issued a significant judgment clarifying that the Employment Relations Authority (Authority) has exclusive jurisdiction over claims that have arisen in the context of an employment relationship, regarding of how such a claim is framed.

The case involved a former employee who commenced proceedings in respect of a personal grievance in the Authority (well out of time) and separate tortious claims in the High Court alleging negligence against her employer. Although the cause of action differed between the two proceedings, both the High Court and the Court of Appeal determined that the jurisdiction to hear the claim lay solely with the Authority. The Court of Appeal's decision was then appealed to the Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court considered s 161(1)(r) of the Employment Relations Act 2000, which provides that the Authority has jurisdiction to consider any action arising from, or related to an employment relationship "other than an action founded on tort". The majority of the Supreme Court held that if the problem relates to or arises from an employment relationship then the problem must be dealt with in the Authority, regardless of how it is framed.

It also held that the Authority's exclusive jurisdiction is not limited to problems that "directly and essentially" concern the employment relationship and that the Authority's jurisdiction is not necessarily limited to problems between parties to employment relationships themselves.

GF v New Zealand Customs Service [2021] NZERA 382

The Authority recently issued its first determination regarding an employee who was dismissed for refusing to be vaccinated.

The employee was dismissed by the employer after reaching the decision that the employee's role was required to be performed by someone who was vaccinated against COVID-19. The employee raised a personal grievance in respect of unjustified dismissal and unjustified disadvantage, and that the employer had breached its good faith obligations.

The employee claimed reinstatement to the role, citing that the process of dismissal lacked a genuine reason and the employer had insufficient grounds to justify a requirement that the role required the employee to be vaccinated on health and safety grounds. The employee also claimed that the employer had wrongly determined the employee's role to fall within a category of workers that required vaccination.

Alternatively, it was also argued that the requirement to be vaccinated altered the terms and conditions of the role occupied to the point that the incumbent should have been the subject of a contractual restructuring process and declared redundant.

The employer claimed that the employment was legitimately brought to an end when the COVID-19 Public Health Response (Vaccinations) Order 2021 (Health Order) came into effect on 30 April 2021. The Health Order required specified categories of frontline border workers to be vaccinated in order to continue performing specified work. The employer completed a thorough health and safety risk assessment and identified that the employee's role came within the scope of the categories of roles that required vaccination. Accordingly, it determined that it had no choice but to dismiss the employee on the basis that they were not vaccinated by the cut-off date under the Health Order.

The Authority held that the dismissal was substantively justified and a fair process had been followed. The Authority considered that that the employer had provided ample information to the employee on the reasons why the role needed to be performed by a vaccinated person, and the consequences of the employee refusing to be vaccinated. The employer also provided the employee with a number of opportunities to identify her concerns about the vaccination process and the health and safety risk assessment undertaken by the employer.

While this decision is not relevant to all employers (given the limited application of the Health Order), it provides useful guidance on how the Authority may view vaccination matters going forward, and the standard that an employer may be held to in order to justifiably dismiss an employee who refuses to be vaccinated.

Unvaccinated employees will not need to have their work scopes reviewed

In response to a parliamentary question, Health Minister Mr Gan Kim Yong clarified that employees who have not received a COVID-19 vaccination will not have to have their work scope reviewed nor will deployment be necessary, unless there is a resurgence of local cases. However, employees should continue taking necessary precautions such as wearing of masks and, if necessary, donning of Personal Protective Equipment and Rostered Routine Testing.

Workers from construction, process and marine sectors to be amongst groups prioritised for vaccination

During the third update on the Whole-of-Government response to COVID-19, Health Minister Mr Gan Kim Yong stated that the Government will prioritise vaccinations of groups that are most at-risk, which is in line with the World Health Organisation's guidelines.

Foremost, healthcare workers and staff working in the healthcare sector as well as COVID-19 frontline and other essential personnel with a higher risk of exposure would be prioritised for vaccination, followed by the elderly and those at greater risk of severe disease from COVID-19 infections. This is followed by employees who are holding jobs or work in settings where risk of a super-spreading event is high, such as those in the construction, process and marine sectors. Thereafter, vaccination will be opened to other Singaporeans as well as long-term residents who are medically-eligible.

High Court clarifies employer's legal burden of proof in justifying summary dismissals

On 2 February 2021, the High Court issued its decision in Wong Sung Boon v Fuji Xerox Singapore Pte Ltd and another [2021] SGHC 24. The matter involved a claim by a former Senior Managing Director ("Wong") of Fuji Xerox Singapore Pte Ltd ("FXS") against FXS for having been summarily dismissed without cause, in breach of his employment contract. Wong also claims that Fuji Xerox Asia Pacific Pte Ltd ("FXAP"), FXS's parent company, wrongfully induced FXS to breach its employment contract with Wong. FXS in turn argues that the dismissal was lawful and counterclaimed against Wong for losses due to Wong's breach of fiduciary duties and other obligations under his employment contract, on the basis that Wong had caused FXS to enter into transactions with various companies which, amongst others, unnecessarily exposed FXS to risk and were carried out without the necessary approvals and credit-worthiness evaluations .

The High Court held that FXS wrongfully dismissed Wong as FXS and FXAP (collectively, the "Defendants") could not prove the allegations which formed the basis of summary dismissal. In particular:

- The Defendants could not prove that Wong had exposed FXS to unnecessary risk by causing FXS to enter into transactions outside the ordinary scope of its business since FXS did not have internal company restrictions on its scope of business and it did not inform Wong what constituted its ordinary scope of business. Further, Wong consulted his staff and mitigated risks before entering into the transactions.
- The Defendants could not prove that Wong had failed to comply with relevant credit evaluation processes before entering into the transactions, as Wong's witnesses testified that strict adherence to FXS's written policy in this regard is not required, and FXS's legal department did not raise issues on this although it could have done so.

The High Court also highlighted that save for a termination notice stating Wong's conduct in relation to the transactions with specific companies amounted to serious misconduct or negligence, Wong was not given any reasons for his dismissal until the suit was commenced. The Defendants' evidence was also lacking in strength compared to Wong's as unlike Wong, the Defendants did not call witnesses who had direct personal knowledge of FXS's internal processes.

The High Court thus awarded Wong damages equivalent to three months' of salary in lieu of notice, other employment benefits under his employment contract (including variable bonus and accrued leave that Wong would have been entitled if not for the summary dismissal) and an end of term payment valued at nearly S$1.3 million in view of Wong's 37.9 years of service with FXS.

High Court holds that it is legally permissible for multiple persons to be vicariously liable for negligence of a single worker

On 3 February 2021, the High Court issued its decision in Munshi Mohammad Faiz v Interpro Construction Pte Ltd and others and another appeal [2021] SGHC 26. The matter involved an industrial accident in which the plaintiff, a construction worker, was injured by an excavator operated by another construction worker ("Sujan"). The plaintiff was the employee of the first defendant, Interpro Construction Pte Ltd ("D1"), which was a sub-contractor of the second defendant, K P Builder Pte Ltd ("D2"). D1 and D2 share a common director. Sujan was employed by the third defendant, Hwa Aik Engineering Pte. Ltd. ("D3"), and D3 was engaged by D2 to supply an excavator and qualified excavator operator (i.e. Sujan) for the works. Sujan was to work under the directions of D1 at the worksite in question.

As the High Court had affirmed the lower court's finding that Sujan was negligent in causing the accident, a relevant issue was whether D1, D2 and D3 can in principle all be vicariously liable for Sujan's negligence. On this issue, the High Court held that it was indeed legally permissible for multiple persons to be held vicariously liable for the negligence of a single worker for the following reasons:

- There is robust authority supporting the recognition of the principle of dual vicarious liability, where two employers may be dually vicariously liable for an employee's negligence.
- Based on first principles, dual vicarious liability ought to be permissible for various rationales, including ensuring effective compensation for the victim as an employer is likely to have deeper pockets than the primary tortfeasor and deterring future harm by encouraging an employer, who has the relevant control over the employee or the activities undertaken, to take steps to reduce the risk of such harm.

On the facts, the High Court found that both D1 and D3, but not D2, were vicariously liable for Sujan's negligence. This was based on a multi-factorial test which takes into account the control of each defendant over Sujan, the closeness of relationship between each defendant and Sujan and whether such risk created or enhanced the risk that led to the tort, amongst others.

Ministry of Manpower ("MOM") announces reduction of the S Pass sub-Dependency Ratio Ceiling ("sub-DRC") for the Manufacturing sector

On 16 February 2021, the MOM announced that they would be reducing the Manufacturing S Pass sub-DRC to incentivise restructuring and improve manpower resilience in the Manufacturing sector. With the reduction of the sub-DRC, which is the maximum permitted ratio of foreign workers to the total workforce that a company is allowed to hire, it is hoped businesses will be encouraged to reduce their reliance on foreign manpower at the S pass level and strengthen the Singaporean core in the sector.

This will be done in 2 steps:

- Reduction of sub-DRC from 20% to 18% from 1 Jan 2022; and
- Further reduction to 15% from 1 Jan 2023.

Upon the changes taking effect, employers will not be able to hire or renew their S-passes until they come within the new sub-DRC percentage. However, employers will be allowed to retain existing S Pass holders until the expiry of their work passes.

- Split-team arrangements are no longer mandatory, although such practices may be maintained for business continuity purposes;
- Employers are to stagger start times and allow flexible workplace hours to reduce congregation of employees and reduce congestion in public places;
- Work-related events are subject to the SMM with a cap of 50 persons to limit exposure with meals at such events being discouraged;
- Social and recreational gatherings at the workplace will be allowed, with a maximum gathering size limit of 8 persons;
- Employees must continue to wear masks to minimise exposure; and
- Common spaces must continue to be cleaned regularly.

The Ministry of Health also warned that employers to continue observing the SMM and that any employers who fail to comply with the SMM will risk workplace closure and that, in the event of an increased risk in resurgence of local cases, stringent measures at the workplace may be reintroduced.

Proposed Amendments To Child Development Co-Savings Act To Provide More Support For Parents And Employers

The Ministry of Social and Family Development (MSF) is proposing to amend the Child Development Co-Savings Act (CDCA) to ensure that more working parents with Singaporean children benefit from family-friendly policies at the workplace. The amendments will support a wider group of parents and employers, including parents not on regular employment, and employers who offer parental leave to new staff, among others.

The Bill seeks to introduce Government-Paid Paternity Benefit (GPPB) and Government-Paid Adoption Benefit (GPAB) schemes later this year, as announced by the Government in February 2021. With these schemes, working fathers and adoptive mothers on short-term employment contracts or whose employment contract had ended just before their child was born or adopted, can qualify for paternity or adoption benefits respectively. The GPPB and GPAB schemes will give parents cash benefits equivalent to the Government-paid portion of Paternity Leave and Adoption Leave for Mothers. Similar benefits were previously only applicable to working mothers via the existing Government-Paid Maternity Benefit (GPMB).

The benefits will apply to parents whose child's date of birth or formal intent to adopt falls on or after 1 January 2021. Parents must have worked for at least 90 days in the 12 months before the child's date of birth or formal intent to adopt. As further subsidiary legislative amendments are to be made, eligible parents may apply from 1 December 2021.

The Bill also proposes to grant GPMB, GPPB or GPAB top-ups for parents who have been retrenched but have unconsumed parental leave that would have otherwise been forfeited. Some parents may be affected by unforeseen job losses even though they have not used their full leave entitlement.

In support of parents with stillborn children who would have been Singapore Citizens if born alive, parents will be entitled to birth-linked leave and benefits under the CDCA.

The Bill also seeks to amend the CDCA to reimburse employers who voluntarily grant leave to their employees who have not met the minimum three-month employment criterion to qualify for parental leave schemes. Other amendments will also be made to allow for greater checks and accountability of Government monies e.g. audits and recovery of erroneous payments, as more benefits are extended.

New measures to facilitate retention and hiring of work permit holders in the Construction, Marine Shipyard and Process sectors

The Government is introducing new measures to help companies in the Construction, Marine Shipyard and Process (CMP) sectors retain their existing Work Permit Holders (WPHs) and facilitate the inflow of new WPHs. The new measures will ensure that the CMP sectors continue to meet manpower needs for their operations, preserve core capabilities and emerge stronger from COVID-19.

The Government will support all firms in the CMP sectors through the following measures:

- Work permits expiring between July and December 2021 will be allowed to be renewed for up to two years, even if they do not meet the renewal criteria. This includes WPHs who are reaching the maximum period of employment, or who are reaching the maximum employment age. Firms also do not need to maintain at least 10% of their WPHs as higher skilled workers.
- From July 2021, the validity of In-Principle Approvals (IPAs) of all work pass holders who are unable to enter Singapore due to border control measures, will be extended by up to one year.
- (The Government will partner the Singapore Contractors Association Ltd (SCAL) to introduce a six-month retention scheme (1 September 2021 till 28 February 2022) for experienced construction WPHs whose previous employment has been terminated.
- (There is a minimum Period of Employment (POE) requirement for WPHs to qualify for Man-Year Entitlement (MYE) waiver. From 1 October 2021 to 31 March 2022, this requirement will be removed for new and renewal WPH from India, Sri Lanka, Thailand, Bangladesh, Myanmar and Philippines and the People's Republic of China (PRC) for firms in the Construction and Process Sectors.

Mandatory Retrenchment Notifications To Be More Comprehensive In Coverage

From 1 November 2021, employers with at least 10 employees will be required to notify the Ministry of Manpower (MOM) of all retrenchments regardless of the number of employees affected. This will allow the tripartite partners and relevant agencies to provide timely support and assistance to workers who are retrenched.

The mandatory retrenchment notification has to be filed by employers within five working days after they provide notice of retrenchment to the affected employee(s).

Currently, these employers are only required to notify the MOM when they retrench five or more employees within a six-month period. The revised notification enables the tripartite partners, Workforce Singapore, National Trade Union Congress' (NTUC) Employment and Employability Institute (e2i) as well as other agencies to better reach out to affected local employees to provide employment and job search support.

The updated requirements on mandatory retrenchment notification will be reflected in the Employment (Retrenchment Reporting) (Amendment) Notification 2021.

Employers should also ensure that they manage any retrenchment exercises responsibly and fairly, in line with the Tripartite Advisory on Managing Excess Manpower and Responsible Retrenchment.

Government Accepts Recommendations by Tripartite Workgroup to Uplift Wages and Well-Being of Lower-Wage Workers

The Tripartite Workgroup submitted 18 recommendations to the Government to uplift wages and the well-being of lower-wage workers. The 18 recommendations can be broadly summarised into the following:

1. The Progressive Wages model shall be expanded to numerous new sectors on a staggered basis over the next 2 years.
2. Firms employing foreign workers have to pay at least the Local Qualifying Salary (currently at S$1,400) to all local workers from 1 September 2022.
3. Progressive Wages and Local Qualifying Salary will be converted to fair hourly rates for those working part-time or overtime.
4. The Baseline Progressive Wage growth for workers at the 20th percentile should outpace median wage growth, so that lower-wage workers gain ground with the median. Employers should aim for higher than baseline Progressive Wage growth for lower-paid lower-wage workers; and lower than baseline Progressive Wage growth for workers in wage rungs above the 20th percentile wage level.
5. Occupational progressive wages will be introduced for administrators and drivers across all sectors from Mar 1, 2023, covering another 55,000 workers. This is to cover lower-wage occupations across sectors that cannot be targeted using sectoral progressive wages.
6. The National Wages Council will set annual guidance for Progressive Wage growth and recommend annual wage growth of Occupational Progressive Wages.
7. Firms employing foreign workers have to pay at least the relevant Sectoral or Occupational Progressive Wages to all local workers in applicable job roles.
8. Use the Work Pass system to ensure that employers pay Progressive Wages and Local Qualifying Salary before they can access any foreign workers, while complemented by current licensing regimes.
9. In the long-term, Progressive Wages shall be expressed in gross terms.
10. Government will review Workfare regularly to ensure that lower-wage workers continue to be supported even as Progressive Wages become more pervasive.
11. Government will provide transitional support for employers, with higher support in the initial phase as businesses recover from the impact of COVID-19.
12. Beyond wages, employers should advance the well-being of lower-wage workers by (i) supporting them to upskill and progress in their careers; (ii) providing them with a safe and healthy work environment; and (iii) providing them with adequate rest areas.

14. A new Progressive Wage Mark ("PW Mark") is established to recognise firms that pay Progressive Wages. In addition, "PW Mark Plus" marks are conferred on firms that go the extra mile to uplift lower-wage workers holistically by advancing their well-being.
15. Public and private sector buyers should require their suppliers to obtain the PW Mark.

In addition to these measures, the Government has announced that it will increase support for the Workfare Income Support Supplement Scheme from S$850million to S$1.1billion per year and shall lower the qualifying age from 35 to 30 years old.

Amendment to the Enforcement Decree of the Employment Insurance Act

The employment maintenance subsidy is a system that provides subsidies when employers which inevitably have to adjust their workforce due to a decrease in sales, etc. maintain the work force through employment maintenance measures such as business suspension or leave of absence instead of reducing employees. Nonetheless, as it was stipulated that support shall be provided to a business or business owner basis in cases where employment maintenance measures are implemented, it was difficult to provide support for employers which dispatch/provide services to various other companies. Under this Amendment, if an employer which uses dispatched workers, etc. implements reduction of working hours or paid leave of absence for its employees, the dispatch agency or subcontractor may implement employment maintenance measures with respect to the dispatched workers, etc. without having to prove the inevitability of workforce adjustment measures.

Trade Union and Labor Relations Adjustment Act

Article 2, Item 4, Sub-item (d) of the Trade Union and Labor Relations Adjustment Act (the "TULRAA"), which was interpreted as restricting dismissed employees, etc. from joining a company union has been deleted. As such, regardless of the form/structure, unions can determine membership eligibility on their own based on their own bylaws. Under this change, in principle, the membership of officers of a union may be determined in accordance with the union's bylaws. Union members of a union who are not workers (employees) working in a business or workplace are allowed to carry out union activities to the extent that such activities do not hinder the efficient operation of the business of the workplace.

Moreover, the provision on the prohibition of full-time union officers' payment of wages, which was interpreted as the government's intervention in labor-management relations, was deleted, but for those who receive wages from the employer and engage in labor union affairs (paid time-off officers), payment of wages is possible within the limit of paid time off hours. A collective bargaining agreement or employer's consent that provides for matters exceeding the paid time off limit will be null and void, and if an employer pays wages in excess of the paid time-off limit, this will be punished as an unfair labor practice.

If individual bargaining sessions are held with the employer's consent, the employer shall faithfully bargain with all the unions that requested bargaining and shall not discriminate between them. Previously, there was a basis for separating the bargaining units due to significant difference in working conditions, etc. in one workplace, but there was no basis for integrating the separate bargaining units due to a change in circumstances. As such, a basis was newly established for the integration of bargaining units.

Also, the maximum effective term of a collective bargaining agreement has been extended from two years to three years, taking into account economic and social changes, costs incurred for bargaining, etc.

Amendment to one provision of the Order containing the compensation formula referred to in section 6D of the Termination of Employment of Workmen (Special Provisions) Act no. 45 of 1971 (TEWA)

By an Order dated 19th February 2021, published in Gazette Extraordinary no. 2216/17 of 25th February 2021, an important amendment to one provision of the Order containing the compensation formula referred to in section 6D of the Termination of Employment of Workmen (Special Provisions) Act no. 45 of 1971 (TEWA) has been made.

The previously operative Order under section 6D, containing the formula for the computation of the amount of compensation payable to an employee "on a decision or order made by the Commissioner under this Act" which was published in Gazette Extraordinary no. 1384/07 of 15th March 2005 – provided [in paragraph (2) thereof] that-

"No amount in excess of Rupees One Million Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand shall be paid to any workman (i.e., employee) as compensation computed according to the above formula."

The Order dated 19th February 2021, referred to above, amends the above provision by the substitution of the words "Two Million Five Hundred Thousand" for the words One Million Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand.

Thus, the maximum amount of compensation that may be awarded to an employee on an order by the Commissioner under the TEWA is now Rupees Two Million Five Hundred Thousand.

SC/HC/LA/50/2020 Asia Broadcasting Corporation – Petitioner v, K.H. Lalith Priyantha – Respondent

The issue to be determined by the Supreme Court was whether the application for leave to appeal against the judgment of the High Court (affirming an order of the Labour Tribunal in favour of the Respondent) should be dismissed on the ground that it was out of time.

The Respondent (Employee) had made an application to the Labour Tribunal alleging that his services had been unjustly terminated by the Petitioner (Employer) and sought an order for reinstatement with back wages or, in the alternative, compensation.

The Labour Tribunal made order on 3rd January 2018 holding that the Respondent's services had been unjustly terminated and awarding compensation by way of relief. The Petitioner appealed to the Provincial High Court ['the High Court'] – which affirmed the order made by the Tribunal and dismissed the appeal. The judgment of the High Court was delivered on 13th March 2020.

By petition dated 17th July 2020 the Petitioner sought the leave of the Supreme Court to appeal to that court from the order of the High Court affirming the order of the Labour Tribunal and the judgment of the Supreme Court referred to herein is as regards that application.

When the application came up for support before the Supreme Court Counsel for the Respondent taking up a preliminary objection, submitted that it could not be maintained since it had been filed out of time. Counsel relied on rule 7 of the Supreme Court Rules which states that

"Every such application shall be made within six weeks of the order, judgement, decree or sentence of the Court of Appeal in respect of which special leave to appeal is sought."

The submission in opposition to the objection was that Rule 7 had no application to an application for leave to appeal from a judgment of the Provincial High Court. Counsel for the Petitioner contended that Rule 7 applied only to applications for special leave to appeal from a judgment of the Court of Appeal.

In deciding the issue of the time limit for applications for leave to appeal from a judgment of the Provincial High Court in appeal from the Labour Tribunal (under section 31DD of the Industrial Disputes Act) the Supreme Court, in the instant case, adverted, inter alia, to the following –

- i. The rules presently in force were the Supreme Court Rules 1990 set out in Gazette No.665/32 dated 7th June 1991.
- ii. At the time the Supreme Court promulgated those rules, legal provision had not been made in respect of appeals to be made to the Provincial High Courts.
- iii. It was by Act No.19 of 1990 (later amended by Act No. 54 of 2006) that provision for such appeals was made.
- iv. In several of its previous judgments, to which specific reference was made and from which excerpts were extensively quoted, the Supreme Court had held that, notwithstanding the absence of any statutory provision or specific rule in the Supreme Court Rules, the time limit for making an application for leave (or special leave) to the Supreme Court from an appellate judgment of the Provincial High Court was six weeks (42 days).

One of the excerpts so quoted was the following – from the judgment in Mahaweli Authority of Sri Lanka Vs United Agency Construction (Pvt) Ltd – 2002 (1) SLR 8 – was the following -

"The rules provide for a party seeking leave to appeal from a judgment or order of the Court of Appeal to the Supreme Court to apply to the Court of Appeal for such leave on a substantial question of law within twenty-one (21) days since the Court of Appeal must make an order on such an application within twenty-one days or as set out in the proviso to Rule 23 (5) and that if no order is made within that period the application for leave is deemed to have been refused.

According to the rules a party may apply directly to the Supreme Court for special leave to appeal within a period of forty-two (42) days of the judgment or order of the Court of Appeal. So that it is seen that in providing for a period of forty-two days for presenting an application for special leave the Supreme Court has allowed a party who has been unsuccessful in his application for leave to appeal in the Court of Appeal a further period of twenty-one days within which an application for special leave can be made.

In my view, the clear inference is that the Supreme Court in making the rules did not consider it necessary to go beyond a maximum of forty-two days for making an application for special leave to the Supreme Court. In deciding on these periods within which such applications for leave to appeal should be made we must necessarily conclude that the Supreme Court fixed such periods as it was of the view that such periods were reasonable having regard to all relevant circumstances, and also that the Supreme Court acted reasonably in doing so. In this context, also relevant, would be the question as to whether, in a situation where the appealable period from the Court of Appeal to the Supreme Court is forty-two days, it is conceivable that the appealable period from the High Court to the Supreme Court should be longer? If so, by how many days?

For the above-mentioned reasons I hold that the period of fifty-five days from the date of the order of the High Court taken by the petitioner to file his application for leave to appeal cannot be considered to be a reasonable period and therefore uphold the preliminary objection raised by the learned counsel for the respondent. I, accordingly, reject this application for leave to appeal."

In the instant case, the Court observed that the judgment of the High Court had been delivered on 13th March 2020 and the application for leave to appeal had been made only on 17th July 2020. However, the Supreme Court (Temporary Provisions) Rules 2020 published in Gazette Extraordinary 2174/4 of 06.05.2020 provided that the period from 16th March 2020 to 18th May 2020 would not be taken into account in computing the period of 6 weeks referred to in Rule 7. Even when the said period was excluded from the computation, the application for leave to appeal had been filed on the 62nd day from the date of the judgment of the High Court and was thus out of time.

Accordingly, the preliminary objection was upheld and the application was dismissed.

SC Appeal 133/2016 Titus Jayantha v Sri Lanka Transport Board

The Appellant had been employed at the Sri Lanka Transport Board since 29th June 1991 and, at the time of the termination of his services, had been a Depot Route Inspector at the Giriulla bus depot.

After a general election on 2nd April 2004 which resulted in a change of the ruling party, certain other workers at the Giriulla depot had threatened the Appellant and other members of the party that was unsuccessful at the elections not to report for work. In this regard, the Appellant made complaints to the police and to the Deputy Commissioner of Labour requesting that he be allowed to report back for work.

Pursuant to the above complaints a settlement has been entered into between parties and the Appellant was allowed to report back to work from 1st June 2004.

Thereafter the Appellant had been stabbed with a piece of glass on 20th June 2004 and was admitted to hospital where he had been treated for 11 days until 30th June 2004. The medical report and medical certificates were issued covering the period up to 30th June 2004 and thereafter further medical certificates covering the period up to 16th Aug 2004 had been submitted by the Appellant.

The Respondent accepted the medical certificates and granted him leave for the period up to 16th August 2004 and the Appellant was required to report for work on 17th. He failed to do so and, on 23rd August 2004 – after one week's absence - the Respondent, by telegram, called upon him to report back for work. There was no response from the Appellant and letter dated 27th August 2004 was sent to him informing him that he should report for work within 7 days from the date of the letter and that if he failed to do so he would be treated as having vacated post voluntarily. The Appellant did not respond nor report back for work and the Respondent issued notice of vacation of post by letter - upon expiry of 3 weeks from 17th August 2004.

Thereafter the Appellant (through his trade union) made an application to the Labour Tribunal alleging that his services had been unjustly terminated. After inquiry, the Labour Tribunal held that the Appellant's services had been constructively terminated by the Respondent and awarded him a sum of rupees Rs.221,250 (30 months' salary) as compensation. In making this order the Tribunal sought to rely on a dissenting judgment by one of 3 judges of the Supreme Court in Nandasena v Uva Regional Transport Board (1993) 1 SLR 318. The Tribunal further stated that "Evidence presented to the tribunal does not reveal that the applicant had any intention of leaving the service voluntarily" and that "the applicant was unable to report for duty and engage in duties due to the physical damage caused to him by an employee of the Giriulla Depot. In the case of Nandasena v. Uva Local Transport Board 1993 SLR 318, Hon. Mark Fernando J. has stated that temporary absenteeism is not a vacation from service."

The Respondent appealed to the Provincial High Court ("the High Court") which set aside the order of the Labour Tribunal, holding that the Appellant had voluntarily vacated post as pleaded by the Respondent. In making this determination the High Court relied on a previous judgment of the Supreme Court in Building Materials Corporation vs Jathika Sewaka Sangamaya (1993) 2 SLR 316 and also relied on the following pronouncement of the Court of Appeal in an unreported case, namely, Jayawardane vs ANCL (CA 562/87)

"No employer could indefinitely, keep a post vacant without any information from the worker of his inability to come to work, especially. Where the employer has given an opportunity for the applicant to tender any explanation or inform the employer about his inability to report to work."

In considering the appeal of the Appellant, the Supreme Court having considered the facts of the case in some detail, as well as previous decisions of the Court, including the judgments in the case in which the dissenting judgment relied on by the Labour Tribunal was delivered, finally concluded as follows:

"As observed above where an employee endeavours to keep away from work or refuses or fails to report to work or duty without an acceptable excuse for a reasonable period of time such conduct would necessarily be a ground which justifies the employer to consider the employee as having vacated service. In the circumstances, I am of the view that the Respondent has in this case proved that the Appellant was absent without leave from 17th August 2004 for a period of approximately 21 days and that it is reasonable on the facts established in this case to draw the inference that the Appellant had no intention to report for work at the Giriulla depot. Further, there is no evidence produced before the Court to prove that the Appellant was subject to fear of life between the period from 17th August 2004 to the 06th September 2004 in which period he was absent for work."

The Supreme Court also noted that it was not competent for the Tribunal to have based its decision on a dissenting judgment since it did not constitute the ratio decidendi in that case. The Court observed "Further it could be seen that the Learned President of the Labour Tribunal has wrongfully relied on this case as the dissenting judgment of the Justice Mark Fernando is not the ratio decidendi in that case thereby not an opinion for the Labour Tribunal to follow."

The judgment of the High Court was affirmed and the Appellant's appeal dismissed.

Gazettes re Employment Provident Fund Act

Regulations made under the Employees Provident Fund (EPF) Act by the Minister of Labour, published in Gazette Extraordinary No. 2239/26 of 3rd August 2021, contained a form (EM 3) to be filled by an employer when remitting EPF contributions, according to which incentive payments were to be included in the "total earnings" of an employee on which EPF contributions must be made.

This was contrary to what had prevailed hitherto and the Employers' Federation of Ceylon [EFC] issued a circular to its members stating, inter alia, that the inclusion was probably by oversight and that it would be making representations to the authorities in this connection.

Subsequently, by notification in Gazette Extraordinary No, 2244/14 of 8th September, the regulations published in Gazette Extraordinary No. 2239/26 of 3rd August 2021 were rescinded.

SC/Appeal 132/2016 S. Raju - Appellant v. Barberyn Reef Hotel Ltd.- Respondent

The Employee-Appellant ["the Applicant"] had been employed by the Respondent as a Chef at its Hotel from 1992 to 2010.

During the course of his employment, he had been warned on several occasions for late attendance - more specifically, by letters dated 30th October 2006 for late attendance on 10 days in September, letter dated 20th November 2006 for 14 days in October, and by letter dated 15th February 2007 where the Applicant had reported to work late on 7 days in the months of November and December.

Despite these warnings, the Applicant's late attendance continued in the months of February and March 2007 as well and he was sent on compulsory "no pay" leave for a period of approximately one month.

On 21st April 2010, the Applicant was found sleeping in the staff rest room when he should have been on duty and was suspended by letter dated 22nd April 2010.

A "charge sheet" (R8) containing three charges was subsequently sent to him by registered post. The charges were

1. Neglecting mandatory services and leaving the kitchen without permission on 21st April 2010.
2. Neglecting mandatory services for a period exceeding 3 hours on 21st April 2010 by going to the hostel without permission during work hours.
3. Acting in breach of discipline or attempting to act in breach of discipline by the actions in 1 and 2 above.

The Applicant was required to submit his response within 7 days but he did not respond at all and, by letter dated 10th June 2010, his services were terminated.

He thereafter sought relief from the Labour Tribunal alleging that his services had been unjustifiably terminated. The Respondent's position was that having regard to the previous record of unsatisfactory attendance and the final act of misconduct, the termination of the Applicant's employment was justified.

The Labour Tribunal held that the employer had adduced sufficient evidence to establish charge 1 (above), but held that the termination was unjustified since the employer had not complied with the principles of natural justice. The Tribunal made order directing that the applicant be reinstated – but without back wages.

The Employer appealed to the Provincial High Court, which set aside the order of the Labour Tribunal. The High Court held that the Labour Tribunal was in error in ordering the reinstatement of the Applicant since he (the Applicant) had failed to show cause as to why he should not be dealt with and steps taken against him (despite having been afforded the opportunity to do so). Thus, the High Court found that the Tribunal had erred in holding that the employer had not complied with the principles of natural justice.

The Applicant sought leave to appeal to the Supreme Court – which allowed leave to appeal on the following questions (as stated in the petition) -

- In the circumstances pleaded, is the judgment of the High Court which had dismissed the application of the applicant just and equitable in terms of law?
- Could the High Court set aside the order of the Labour Tribunal considering only the fact that, the “supplicant” (sic) had not answered the charges levelled against him on 10. 05. 2010?
- In the circumstances pleaded, is the judgement of the High Court according to the law and according to the evidence adduced in the case?

That Supreme Court, on a careful consideration and analysis of the evidence noted that although the applicant had initially taken up the position that he did not receive the show cause letter he had later admitted having received it and stated that it was in fact the letter of termination that he did not receive. It was also noted by the Supreme Court that the Applicant himself had admitted the fact that he had been asleep in the staff quarters when he should have been on duty and that he had sought to excuse himself stating that he was suffering from uncontrollable diabetes. In this connection it was noted that, in a statement made to his superior officer on the day after the incident, the applicant had not made any mention of either suffering from uncontrollable diabetes or having consulted any doctor – although, at the Tribunal, he had submitted a medical certificate from a doctor who also gave evidence for him. This medical certificate was said to have been obtained on the same day on which he was found sleeping. It is implicit in the judgment of the Supreme Court that there was merit in the contention of the employer that this medical certificate was wrongly dated and obtained much later for the purpose of the case.

In its judgment the Supreme Court reaffirmed the following principles –

- That it was not incumbent on an employer to conduct a domestic inquiry prior to taking disciplinary action – even termination of services – against an employee
- Nevertheless, the principles of natural justice should be complied with by an employer prior to taking such action. Such principles would be satisfied where the employee is given an opportunity to state his response to the allegations against him. In the instant case he had been given such an opportunity by the show cause letter which called for his response within seven days; but the employee had not responded even after a month.
- In determining whether the termination was justified or not, the final act of misconduct should not (only) be considered in isolation but in connection with previous lapses (in this instance, lapses of a similar nature) in the course of employment.
- A previous pronouncement by the Supreme Court that “justice and equity can themselves be measured not according to the urgings of a kind heart but only within the framework of the law” was cited with approval and the Court observed

“Therefore, it is clear that equity is not sympathy and that a court is barred from reaching a just and equitable decision based solely on sympathetic considerations. A just and equitable decision in an industrial matter is one which takes into consideration the situations of both the employer and the employee and assumes a holistic approach to the issue at hand based on the legal framework.”

With regard to the hotel industry in particular the Supreme Court stated as follows –

“From the evidence led before the Labour Tribunal it was revealed that the work of the Applicant was necessary for putting together, on time, the meals served for the guests staying at the hotel. This was a job where the work simply had to be completed by a given deadline if the residents of the Hotel were to be satisfactorily served their meals in keeping with the standards of the Respondent Hotel as an Ayurvedic resort, catering predominantly to foreign tourists.....”

“This court observes that the Respondent was engaged in the hospitality trade where success largely depends on the customer satisfaction or the satisfaction of the guest to be precise. Thus, in the highly competitive present-day business world the sustenance of a business of this nature hinges on the customer reviews. Hence the employees are not only expected but are under a duty to rise up to industry demands and to act reasonably and with a sense of responsibility....”

In the result, all three questions of law on which leave to appeal had been granted were answered in the affirmative (in favour of the employer) and the appeal was dismissed.

Article 34, Paragraph 2 of the Labor Standards Act contains a proviso that allows a reduction of the minimum time of rest between shifts from a consecutive 11 hours to a consecutive 8 hours due to the nature of the work performed or other special reasons (and as publicly announced by the central competent authority upon request from the competent authority for the industry). 4. Improved social welfare and tax treatment: The duration of the preferential tax treatment under the previous Act is extended from 3 to 5 years. Foreign professionals working solo or for a qualified employer may apply to enroll themselves or their direct relatives in the national health insurance program without the 6-month waiting period.

The implementation date will be set by the Executive Yuan.

The wording "twice" in Article 2 of the Unpaid Child Care Leave Implementation Act refers to the number of times unpaid child care leave may be taken if the employee is taking care of two or more children

Issued by: The Ministry of Labor
Ref. No.: Lao-Dong-Tiao-4-Zi-1100130788
Issue date: July 27, 2021

Unpaid child care leave for an employee's children under the age of three is stipulated in Article 16 of the Act for Gender Equality in Employment, which limits such leave to two years maximum, and in case of simultaneously caring for multiple children, the overlapping period is computed aggregately, and the maximum duration is limited to two years of care total for the youngest of the children. The new Unpaid Child Care Leave Implementation Act that came into effect on July 1, 2021, suggests that unpaid child care leave should not be less than six months in principle, and if an employee requests less than six months of unpaid child care leave, it should still be no less than 30 days, and such requests may only be made twice at most. When read together, since unpaid child care leave for multiple children overlaps with each other, the number of times an employee may request unpaid child care leave is also computed aggregately and is similarly limited to a maximum of two such requests for the youngest of the children.

The Grand Justice Interpretation No.807 has declared Article 49, Paragraph 1 of the Labor Standards Act as unconstitutional

Issued by: The Judicial Yuan
Ref. No.: Shi-Zi-807
Issue date: August 20, 2021

Article 49, Paragraph 1 of the Labor Standards Act had stipulated that an employer may not ask female employees to work between 10PM to 6AM the next day unless consented by a union or the labor-management conference and certain other requirements are met, such as the employer providing sanitation facilities, transportation or dormitories. This was deemed to be discriminatory of female employees and contrary to Article 7 of the Constitution on protecting gender equality. As a result, this provision is no longer valid as of the date of the Interpretation.

COVID-19 : Provident Fund Measures

Pursuant to the Notification of the Ministry of Finance on the Determination of the Type of Business, Duration, and Conditions for Employees or Employer to Cease or Postpone the Submission of Savings or Contributions to the Provident Fund in Areas Affected by Economic Crisis, Disaster, or Other Severe Events Affecting Economic Conditions published on April 29, 2020, a second edition of the Notification was promulgated due to the prolonged effects caused by the Pandemic.

This Notification permits both employers and employees to cease, or postpone, the duty to submit contributions to the provident fund between January and June of 2021, with no effect on the membership status of such provident fund. However, the employees may continue to contribute to the provident fund, even though the employer did not.

Such temporary cessation, or the postponement, of the contribution of the provident fund must obtain a resolution from a general meeting of the provident fund's members, which is held in accordance with the fund's regulations, or resolved with a simple majority vote of the attendees, if the fund regulations did not explicitly specify the vote counting. In the event that a general meeting cannot be held, the fund committee shall unanimously pass a resolution to cease or postpone the contributions temporarily. If the provident fund is a pooled fund consisting of more than one employer, the resolutions must be obtained from the meetings of the members of each employer, or from the fund committee of each employer.

The employer, or the fund committee, must notify the registrar that they have resolved to make use of the exemption, and attach the following documents:

- (a) A certification, signed by the employer's director(s), certifying that the business is facing operational and financial difficulties due to the Pandemic; and
- (b) Minutes of the general meeting, or minutes of the meeting of the Fund Committee, with details in relation to the employer's operational and financial difficulties caused by COVID-19, and a resolution approving the cessation or postponement of the contributions and the duration, but not exceeding June 2021.

The employees and employers may notify the registrar, in order to resume their contributions to the provident fund.

Less Requirements for the Social Security Office's unemployment benefits

On January 20, 2021 the Social Security Office (SSO) Social Security Office issued the Notification of the Social Security Office on the Eligibility Criteria for Unemployment Benefits B.E. 2564 (2021), in order to slightly revise the procedures for receiving unemployment compensation for unemployed insured persons under Section 33 of the Social Security Act. Under Section 78 of the Social Security Act B.E. 2533 (1990), the SSO generally entitles the eligible unemployed persons to receive monthly payments for up to six months until they go back to work, provided they pay monthly contributions for at least six months within the period of fifteen months prior to unemployment. However, the required documents to be submitted by the unemployed person and the procedures can be lengthy and disadvantageous to the employees, which might eventually prevent them from receiving the compensation. In particular, the unemployed person would not be eligible for the compensation under the following circumstances:

- the unemployment is caused by termination as a result of misconduct;
- the unemployment is caused by termination as a result of intentionally committing a criminal offence against the employer;
- the unemployment is caused by termination as a result of intentionally causing damage to the employer;
- the unemployment is caused by termination as a result of violating rules or work regulations, or grossly disobeying the lawful order of the employer;
- the unemployment is caused by termination as a result of neglecting duties for seven consecutive days, without a justifiable reason;
- the unemployment is caused by termination as a result of negligently causing serious damage to the employer; or
- the unemployment is caused by termination as a result of or being imprisoned by a final judgment to imprisonment, except for an offence which is committed through negligence or it is a petty offence

With the cancellation of the previous regulations, including the Notification of the Social Security Office on the Eligibility Criteria for Unemployment Benefits B.E. 2547 (2004), and the Notification of the Social Security Office on the Eligibility Criteria for Unemployment Benefits (No. 2) B.E. 2563 (2020), the final

Thailand announces a three months extension for social security contributions reductions.

On 18 May 2021, the Social Security Office announced a reduction for mandatory social security contributions to the Social Security Fund (SSF) in order to ease the financial burden of employers and employees due to the resurgence of COVID-19 cases. The reductions were as follows: (i) mandatory contribution rate reduced from 5% to 2.5%, with a maximum of THB375 per month; and (ii) voluntary contribution rate for former employees who continued to contribute to the SSF after leaving their jobs from THB432 to THB216 per month. These reductions were initially effective for three months from 1 June 2021 – 31 August 2021.

On 8 September 2021, the Social Security Office announced plans to extend the reduction of mandatory social security contributions for another three months i.e. from 1 September to 30 November 2021. The mandatory social security contribution rate remains the same, from 5% to 2.5%, with a maximum of THB375 per month. However, the voluntary contribution rate for former employees who continued to contribute to the Social Security Fund after leaving their jobs, has been reduced from THB432 to THB235 per month.

However, please note that as of the current date, no official legislation has been issued on this matter. The Social Security Board is expected to propose these extensions to the Cabinet meeting shortly.
