Welcome

We invite you to the 2016 Law Firm Symposium, to be held November 16-18, 2016, at the lovely Fairmont Chicago, Millennium Park. The Fairmont is close to many Chicago attractions and just steps from the Magnificent Mile, as well as being a wonderful conference venue. This year's Symposium begins with a Welcome Reception for all attendees on the evening of Wednesday, November 16. Programs will run all day on Thursday, November 17, and the morning of Friday, November 18. We will conclude at 12:30 p.m. on the 18th. We hope that you will join us for the premier loss prevention and insurance event for large and sophisticated law firms, and the insurers that serve them.

The Symposium, reception and associated dinner allow us to provide our clients and friends with the latest information, trends, and risk management and governance strategies affecting law firms today. In addition, the Symposium presents a unique opportunity for lawyers from the finest firms in the world to meet and discuss issues of mutual interest. The Symposium also presents tremendous opportunities for lawyers to visit with representatives from all major professional liability insurance markets in a relaxed atmosphere.

We have again arranged a superior faculty to lead timely programs. The Symposium has traditionally been distinguished by the quality of our presenters, and this year is no exception. This year's programs include:

- Law Firm General Counsels' Forum
- Understanding and Avoiding Sanctions in Litigation
- When the Unthinkable Happens: Responding to a Law Firm Data Breach
- Exit Stage Left: Managing the Process When Lawyers Leave the Firm
- The Perpetual Problem of UPL
- Risk and the Regional Law Firm (Concurrent Breakout Session)
- Global Law Firms: Options, Opportunities, and Obstacles (Concurrent Breakout Session)
- By the Light of the Moonlight Fire: A Case Study in Litigation [Mis]Conduct
- We're All in this Together Until We're Not: Issues in Joint Representations
- Grappling with Client Collection and Financial Issues

The next few pages discuss our many fine programs and provide information on our speakers. We are confident that after reviewing this information, you will decide to join us in Chicago.

Registration and hotel information can be found at the back of this brochure. The fee to attend the 2016 Symposium remains just $995, well below the cost of similar programs, and we offer a discount for multiple attendees from the same firm. The fee covers only a fraction of the costs associated with the Symposium. Please note that the 2015 Symposium was filled to capacity and we are expecting a capacity audience again this year. In addition, our block of hotel rooms fills quickly. Please register for the Symposium and make your hotel reservations as soon as time permits.

The Symposium dinner on November 17th is included with the cost of registration. If your spouse or partner is joining you in Chicago, he or she is welcome to attend the dinner—simply let us know at the time you register. The dinner is always a popular event and we certainly hope that you will join us.

We look forward to seeing you in Chicago on November 16-18, 2016.

The Fairmont Millennium Park

Thursday, November 17

7:45–8:45 a.m. Registration and Breakfast

8:45–9:00 a.m. Welcome and Opening Remarks

9:00–10:15 a.m. Law Firm General Counsels' Forum

Law firms today face difficult and diverse risks, and dynamic professional liability and responsibility challenges. All firms now recognize the importance of effective risk management, and, on the other side of the coin, the reputational bruising, practical distractions, and financial consequences that can flow from lawyers' misjudgments and professional lapses. Law firm general counsels and their deputies, as well as their colleagues on ethics committees, business intake committees, and the like, play a major role in managing their firms' risks and challenges, and in helping their colleagues practice responsibly. This panel of experienced law firm general counsels will discuss current issues of critical importance to general counsels in law firms of all sizes, as well as problems and trends likely to affect firms in the near future.

Moderator: Henry S. Bryans, Aon Professional Services

Panelists: David Jiménez-Ekman, Jenner & Block LLP
Robert M. Rolfe, Hunton & Williams LLP
Virginia A. Seitz, Sidley Austin LLP
Michael J. Silverman, Duane Morris LLP

10:15–10:30 a.m. Mid-Morning Break

10:30–11:30 a.m. Understanding and Avoiding Sanctions in Litigation

Sanctions are a perpetual threat to trial lawyers and even to appellate counsel. Indeed, it is now a common litigation strategy to make a case more about the opposing lawyers' conduct than it is about the merits of the action. In any event, courts have a number of options for sanctioning lawyers, including various rules of civil and appellate procedure, statutes such as 28 U.S.C. § 1927, and their inherent power. Sanctions may be either monetary or non-monetary, and in many cases they are embarrassing for the lawyers involved and threaten their reputations. Regardless of the sanction sought, the related motion practice is stressful for the lawyers involved and time-consuming for those tasked with responding. This program will examine and explain the common grounds for sanctioning lawyers, and offer practical advice on avoiding and defeating sanctions.

Presenter: Douglas R. Richmond, Aon Professional Services

11:30–12:30 p.m. When the Unthinkable Happens: Responding to a Law Firm Data Breach

Recent events suggest that when it comes to cyber security, the issue is no longer whether a law firm will suffer a data breach, but when. After all, potential wrongdoers abound, no IT defenses are perfect, and lawyers and law firm staff make mistakes. When a data breach occurs, a firm's response may affect whether clients or employees are harmed, clients are lost, the firm's reputation is bruised, the firm suffers operational damage, or the firm is exposed to liability to either clients or employees. The firm's ability to respond to a breach will be tested under a variety of severe pressures. This expert panel will discuss and outline effective incident response from a law firm perspective, and offer practical advice on responding to a breach in the unfortunate event of one.

Moderator: Matthew K. Corbin, Aon Professional Services

Panelists: Marcus A. Christian, Mayer Brown LLP

 Tanya Forsheit, Baker & Hostetler LLP

 Matt Kesner, Fenwick & West LLP

12:30–1:30 p.m. Luncheon

1:45–2:45 p.m. Exit Stage Left: Managing the Process When Lawyers Leave the Firm

Lawyers are incredibly mobile and their departures from firms raise a number of issues and questions. These include how and under what circumstances they may communicate their departures to clients, whether they may approach other lawyers and staff about joining them at their new firms, what materials they are allowed to take with them when they leave, and the mechanics of transferring client files. Other issues may include the firm's ability to enforce a notice provision in its partnership or shareholders' agreement, the collection of fees from clients of the departing lawyers who are following them, and more. This panel will examine the many aspects of lawyers' departures and offer practical advice on managing the process.

Moderator: Henry S. Bryans, Aon Professional Services

Panelists: Susan A. Cahoon, Kilpatrick Townsend & Stockton LLP

 Douglas W. Ey Jr., McGuireWoods LLP

 Kevin S. Rosen, Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher LLP

2:45–3:45 p.m. The Perpetual Problem of UPL

The unauthorized practice of law is a seemingly endless source of concern for law firm general counsels. UPL concerns are aggravated by law firms' continued expansion, the mobility of lawyers within and between firms, and clients' relentless consolidation of their outside counsel ranks, the final factor being a particular issue as clients want firms to handle matters in jurisdictions where they do not have offices. This program will examine the current state of the law and discuss strategies for addressing common UPL challenges.

Moderator: Mark J. Peterson, Aon Professional Services

Panelists: Alison P. Buchanan, Hoge Fenton Jones & Appel

 Thomas E. Spahn, McGuireWoods LLP

3:45–4:00 p.m. Afternoon Break

4:00–5:00 p.m. Concurrent Breakout Sessions

Risk and the Regional Law Firm

A number of excellent law firms have regional practices, some with multiple offices in the same state, others with offices in adjoining or nearby states, and still others covering a region from a single office. These firms face many of the professional liability and responsibility challenges that global law firms experience—but perhaps without the same risk management infrastructure. In other instances, practicing in a regional law firm raises particular risk management issues unique to that model. This panel of experienced lawyers from regional law firms will discuss the risk management issues their firms face and how they deal with them.

Moderator: Brian S. Faughnan, Lewis, Thomason, King, Krieg & Waldrop, P.C.

Panelists: J. Nick Badgerow, Spencer Fane LLP
 Devika Kewalramani, Moses & Singer, LLP
 Jeffrey P. Reilly, Miles & Stockbridge P.C.

Global Law Firms: Options, Opportunities, and Obstacles

Global law firms confront a host of professional liability and responsibility issues beyond those that cross the desks of general counsels in firms with only a U.S. footprint. At the same time, many fine law firms are looking to expand globally—some are opening overseas offices for the first time and others that have already gone global are expanding into countries where they have not previously done business. Firms considering global expansion must often weigh the possibility of new organizational forms. In other cases, they may face due diligence obstacles, labor to adapt U.S. practices in fashions that will satisfy foreign colleagues, navigate complex cross-jurisdictional issues, tackle new regulatory regimes, and adapt to a host of new cultural considerations. This experienced panel will share their perspectives on the key issues challenging global law firms, including firms expanding into new countries.

Moderator: Jane Hunter, Aon Professional Services

Panelists: Edward J. Reich, Dentons
 Juliet Tainui-Hernandez, Norton Rose Fulbright LLP
 Marguerite S. Walsh, Littler Mendelson P.C.

5:00 p.m. Closing Remarks

6:00–6:30 p.m. Cocktail Reception

Join us for cocktails in the hotel before heading to dinner with colleagues and friends both old and new at one of the fine restaurants where we have group reservations.

7:00 p.m. Dinner

Chicago is a wonderful city for dining. Join your colleagues at any of several outstanding Chicago restaurants, all within walking distance of the hotel or but a short shuttle ride away. Select the restaurant that appeals to you; a list of the restaurants and information about them accompany this brochure. You'll be able to sign up for the restaurant of your choice at the Symposium. Spouses and partners are always welcome. And, of course, dinner is included with your registration.

8:00–9:00 a.m. Breakfast

9:00–10:15 a.m. By the Light of the Moonlight Fire: A Case Study in Litigation [Mis]Conduct

A California wildfire known as the Moonlight Fire spawned acrimonious federal and state court litigation. Those cases in turn became ethical quagmires raising questions about ex parte communications, lawyers' duty of candor, conduct by witnesses, alleged discovery misconduct, allegations of fraud on the court, the conduct of government lawyers, and more. The litigation is ongoing and we have no interest in choosing sides or impugning lawyers' integrity—especially when there is much you can never truly know about a case when you are on the outside looking in—but the litigation richly illustrates the risk-charged environment that major lawsuits can become. Perhaps more importantly, it tees up for discussion litigation ethics and professional liability issues that transcend individual cases. Our panel of experienced lawyers will examine several issues in the Moonlight Fire litigation that have the potential to burn trial lawyers in a range of matters.

Moderator: Lucian T. Pera, Adams and Reese LLP

Panelists: Wendy J. Muchman, Illinois Attorney Registration & Disciplinary Comm'n
Alan J. Stone, Milbank, Tweed, Hadley & McCloy LLP
John K. Villa, Williams & Connolly LLP

10:15–10:30 a.m. Mid-Morning Break

10:30–11:30 a.m. We're All in this Together Until We're Not: Issues in Joint Representations

Joint representations in litigation and transactional matters account for some of the most difficult conflict of interest allegations that law firms face. This interactive panel will explore in depth conflict of interest, confidentiality, and other professional responsibility issues that arise when lawyers represent multiple clients in a single matter. For example, under what circumstances are such representations permitted, and even if they are permitted, when should lawyers decline them? When is consent "informed" in this context? And what happens when things fall apart down the road? You'll enjoy our panelists' answers to these challenging questions.

Moderator: Matthew K. Corbin, Aon Professional Services

Panelists: John F. Emanuel, Husch Blackwell LLP
Marcy G. Glenn, Holland & Hart LLP
Anne E. Thar, Sidley Austin LLP

11:30–12:30 p.m. Grappling with Client Collection and Financial Issues

Slow-pay and no-pay clients pose a host of problems for law firms. Sometimes these clients are unworthy in the sense that they may expose the firm to third-party liability. In other instances, their work may receive less attention from lawyers than necessary. In still other instances, a client's conduct may reflect dissatisfaction with the firm's services and potentially foreshadow a claim against the firm. This panel will address these concerns and a range of other practical issues, including proactively managing slow-payer engagements to minimize later exposure, safely collecting from non-paying clients, how to gauge the likelihood of a malpractice claim by a non-paying or slow-paying client, the use of collection firms, the use of mutual releases when a firm compromises outstanding charges, and more.

Moderator: Douglas R. Richmond, Aon Professional Services

Panelists: Sue C. Friedberg, Buchanan Ingersoll & Rooney PC
Peter R. Jarvis, Holland & Knight LLP

Getting to and From Chicago Airports

TAXI & CAR SERVICE – If you take a taxi to the Fairmont from either O'Hare International Airport or Midway Airport, you can expect to pay a fare of $45-55.

PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION – If you arrive in Chicago during rush hour in the morning or late afternoon, you may wish to consider taking a train (the "L") from either airport into the city to avoid traffic. The Chicago Transit Authority's Blue Line serves O'Hare, while the Orange Line serves Midway. In either airport, look for the signs saying "Trains to City." Follow the signs to the airport train stations. Regardless of which airport you fly into, take the train to the Thompson Center in the heart of the Loop, which may be announced on the train as "Clark and Lake" (the nearest intersection to the stop) or "the Thompson Center." You can easily catch a cab at the Thompson Center or within a block of it. Cab fare from the Thompson Center to the Fairmont will be less than $10. It is approximately a six block walk from the Thompson Center to the Fairmont. The L fare is $5 one way from O'Hare or $2.25 from Midway. Private car services are also available with advance reservations, but taxis are abundant at both airports.

Families and Spouses

Attendees often bring their spouses or families to Chicago, and there is plenty for them to do while you are attending the Symposium. The Fairmont is at the South end of Michigan Avenue's "Magnificent Mile," with lots of great shopping within easy walking distance. The Art Institute of Chicago, gorgeous Millennium Park, and the Theatre District are easy walks from the hotel, and attractions such as the Shedd Aquarium, Field Museum, Adler Planetarium and others are easy cab rides away. The hotel is also close to stations serving all of the Chicago Transit Authority's train lines, and anyone feeling even a little adventurous can take the L almost anywhere in the city (heads up: the Red and Blue lines of the L run as subways through downtown Chicago).
